Tough Political Posts Assigned To Republicans

EDITOR'S NOTE—In naming Henry Cabot Lodge Jr. to be ambassador to South Viet Nam, President Kennedy has again demonstrated a tendency to fill politically hot jobs with Republicans. The rollout includes such administration stalwarts as Robert S. McNamara and C. Douglas Dillon. But does it inhibit GOP criticism? Jack Bell, Associated Press political writer, discusses the situation.

By JACK BELL

WASHINGTON (AP) — President Kennedy can expect early and overwhelming Senate approval of his nomination of Henry Cabot Lodge Jr. as ambassador to South Viet Nam.

But there will be no accompanying guarantee that Republicans will soft pedal their criticism of administration Asian policies as a result.

In picking Lodge, the 1960 GOP vice presidential nominee, for the tough Saigon post, Kennedy demonstrated anew a tendency to dip into Republican ranks when there is a politically controversial job to fill.

Hot Spots Plugged

Republicans Robert S. McNamara in defense and C. Douglas Dillon at the Treasury plug two Cabinet hot spots. Former GOP Secretary of State Christian A. Herter serves as the President's international trade negotiator. William C. Foster, once a Westchester County, N.Y., GOP official, heads up the disarmament agency.

Republican John A. McCone runs the Central Intelligence Agency. In the past when the President needed an old hand for particularly difficult fencing with the Russians, he has called in John J. McCloy, another Republican.

These key appointees lend a shade of bipartisanship to areas where Kennedy would like a little less criticism and a little more cooperation from the Republicans. With his selection of Lodge, Kennedy was keeping pace with precedents laid down by Franklin D. Roosevelt.

Leads Is Expert

Kennedy once offered former Vice President Richard M. Nixon a choice of appointments but the 1952 presidential loser wanted none.

There always is griping among Republicans when one of their number goes over to a Democratic administration. Dillon, for one, was looked upon as a political turncoat.

But Sen. Jacob K. Javits, R-N.Y., said he doesn't expect much of this in Lodge's case. He called Lodge's qualifications for his new job exceptional.

Sen. Thomas H. Kuchel of California, the assistant Senate Republican leader, said in a separate interview he is glad to see the administration "use Lodge's capabilities in one of the most inflammatory parts of the world."

Senators To Make Air Inspection Of New York Sites

WASHINGTON (AP) — A group of senators will leave Wednesday on a five-day aerial inspection trip to proposed park and seashore recreation areas in the Midwest and West.

The Senate Interior Public Lands Subcommittee plans to look over the Sleeping Bear and Pictured Rocks areas in Michigan, and others in North Dakota, Montana, Idaho, Oregon, California, Utah, Kansas and Missouri.

Kennedy In Rome; Visit To Vatican Set For Tuesday

ROME (AP)—President Kennedy arrived in Rome today to a sparse reception by Italian standards and promptly went into a conference with Italian leaders in his drive to build stronger unity between the United States and Western Europe.

Kennedy told an airport reception of Italian leaders and Americans that he had come to seek ways for the United States and its allies to maintain their 15-year-old alliance. He was expected to find the Italian officials receptive. Tuesday he will meet Pope Paul VI.

On his drive from the airport the President rode past Rome's ancient splendor.

A turnout of only tens of thousands of Romans was a contrast to the throngs who flocked to see the President in Germany and Ireland.

Trip Cut Short

It was a searing hot day, with the temperature in the 90s, and the traditional start of vacation time for Italians. Kennedy's motorcade from the airport was held up 10 minutes by heavy traffic on the road to the sea resorts.

Pierre Salinger, White House press secretary, announced that Kennedy would leave Italy for Washington Tuesday night instead of Wednesday morning, ending his European trip about 15 hours earlier than originally planned.

Salinger said the presidential plane would depart from Naples at 7 p.m. Tuesday after Kennedy visited North Atlantic Treaty Organization headquarters.

A spokesman for the Italian president said Segni and Kennedy met alone at first while Leone, Rusk and Foreign Minister Attilio Piccioni conferred in another room.

Segni and Kennedy talked for thirty minutes in the Italian president's private studio.

Then they joined the others, and aides, in an adjoining room for a further exchange of views.

Tuesday the President has his historic meeting with Pope Paul VI.

Relaxes At Lake Como

Kennedy flew here from Milan after spending the night relaxing at a villa beside Lake Como.

At the seaside airport here about 500 Americans cheered the President from the observation platform on the roof of the airport building.

The Italian president told Kennedy their talks would enable them to review "in a spirit of mutual collaboration and with a high sense of responsibility" the grave problems of the hour.

Kennedy in reply said he came to determine how the United States and its allies can maintain "the intimate association, the intimate alliance which has marked our affairs during the past 15 years."

Italy and the United States, he added, "must assure that their association remains as strong in the future as in the past."

Tens of thousands of Romans lined parts of Kennedy's route through the Eternal City. Thousands of pasted up posters said "Viva the United States" and "Viva Kennedy."

A few said "Viva Jackie," who originally was to have come with the President. The plans were changed when she became pregnant.

The size of the welcoming crowds was probably reduced considerably by the date, the start of Italy's favorite vacation month.

Kennedy flew to Italy from Britain after 12 hours of discussion there with Prime Minister Harold Macmillan on a range of topics including over-all East-West relations, nuclear test ban negotiations, Kennedy's proposal for a NATO surface fleet armed with Polaris missiles.

A final communique stressed that East-West relations and nuclear ban talks were top issues in their meeting. The communique said that the two leaders had agreed on the general lines which their envoys would take with the Soviets in the test ban talks opening in Moscow July 15.

As expected, however, Macmillan still refused to commit his government to the proposed nuclear surface fleet. He would go no further than to agree to studies of the project with interested members of NATO.

Romanian Red Leader Shuns Khrushchev Rally In Berlin

North And South Recall Battle Of Gettysburg

GETTYSBURG BATTLEFIELD, Pa. (AP)—Drawn by the magnet of awesome history, throngs from North and South commemorate today the beginning of the greatest battle ever fought in the Western Hemisphere.

On this day 100 years ago Gen. Robert E. Lee's Confederates drove the hosts of Gen. George Gordon Meade across rolling countryside and through the streets of Gettysburg—only to find the federal troops finally rallying on Cemetery Hill and Ridge.

Three days later Lee, a beaten man nobly asserting, "It was all my fault," ordered a retreat—and the Civil War had reached its turning point.

Governors Lay Wreaths

The highlight of today's commemoration was a solemn afternoon ceremony at the Eternal Light peace memorial overlooking the scene of the first day's clash.

Governors or other representatives of 27 of the 29 states whose men fought and fell here were on hand to lay wreaths at the monument's base and otherwise pay tribute to the dead. Louisiana and Tennessee decided not to send a representative.

Another event on today's program was the dedication by Postmaster General J. Edward Day of a Gettysburg commemorative stamp. Half gray and half blue, the stamp shows a federal and a man from Dixie locked in bayonet combat.

Throughout the three-day observance "Vignettes of History" will be given by amateur theatrical groups clad in reproductions of the dress of a century ago.

For example there will be a playlet each morning at Devil's Den or Sharpshooter's Roost. This was a place of violence and death which was won and lost many times by both sides during the carnage. It is a forbidding place shadowed by Little Round Top.

Beards And Calico

Another vignette is entitled "Brother Captures Brother." It shows how on July 1, 1863, a detail of the 45th New York Regiment led by Cpl. Rudolph Schwarz captured some Confederate soldiers. One prisoner recognized the corporal as his brother whom he hadn't seen for years. There was a happy but brief reunion.

Nobody in authority could say today how many thousands of visitors have come to this flag-bedecked town—population 8,000—in whose shops one can buy anything from statuettes of Lee and Meade to Civil War rifles guaranteed to be shooable. But the sidewalks are thronged like a big city.

Many of the men wear Civil War garb and beards that look long in the growing and many of the women wear long calico skirts and bonnets.

One big traffic jam developed Sunday night as an estimated 8,000 to 10,000 people struggled out to the Gettysburg High School football field where former President Dwight D. Eisenhower was the featured speaker at the annual commemorative exercises of the Gettysburg Fire Department.

The general's voice came through loud and clear as he made an urgent call for sturdy self-reliance and struck out against "paternalistic government."

Marquette Gets Sizzling Sunday With Top Of 101

MARQUETTE (AP) — Mother Nature moved her oven from southern Michigan to the north and cooked Marquette Sunday.

It was 101 degrees about 3 p.m., the hottest in the state.

The mercury marked a record temperature for June in the Upper Peninsula city. A comparably refreshing reading of 99 — in June 1956 — was the previous monthly record, the Weather Bureau said. "That 101 certainly was abnormal," a Weather Bureau spokesman said.

"Conditions were just favorable for that intense heat," he added, with no clouds while warm air slugged up from the south.

It was almost as stuffy as the big heat wave of July, 1901, when Marquette's temperature hit 108, the all-time record for the city.

Detroit-Windsor Festival Today

DETROIT (AP) — A celebration of freedom by Detroit and Windsor, Canada, ranged up and down the Detroit River today in the two cities' annual Freedom Festival.

Detroit's Civic Center and Windsor's Jackson Park were focal points of the celebration. A fireworks display on the river tonight was expected to attract more than half a million spectators.

Thousands of persons attended festivities on Detroit's side of the river Sunday, including a commemoration of the 100th anniversary of the Emancipation Proclamation at Ford Auditorium.

Windsor's celebration of Canada's Dominion Day today includes a downtown parade tonight.

W. Willard Wirtz, secretary of labor, told the Ford Auditorium audience that economic rights must not be overlooked in the enforcement of equal rights for Negroes.

"Until there are decent jobs at decent wages for the seven million Negro workers in America, their freedom will still be incomplete," Wirtz said.

Other speakers included Benson Ford, vice president of the Ford Motor Co., and Roy Wilkins, executive secretary of the National Association for the Advancement of Colored People.

Williams Opens Embassy In Gabon, African Republic

LIBREVILLE, Gabon (AP) — Former Michigan Democratic Gov. G. Mennen Williams officially opened the new U.S. Embassy building in this central African republic Sunday.

Williams, U.S. undersecretary of state for African affairs, is on a tour of Africa. Attending the ceremony were President Leon M'ba and many other high-ranking officials of Gabon, which formerly was a part of French Equatorial Africa.

Congress Dawdles In First 6 Months

WASHINGTON (AP) — Congress completed the first six months of what may be a year-long session by taking a week off for Independence Day flag-waving and oratory.

After a half year of sporadic labors, it has little to show except a stack of unfinished business.

The official "status of major legislation" reads like the line score of the Washington Senators in an American League baseball game. It lists the enactment of four public laws, one extending the draft law, one authorizing procurement of aircraft, missiles and naval vessels, and two appropriation bills.

The seeming snail's pace does not appear to alarm congressional leaders.

Rep. Hale Boggs of Louisiana, the Democratic House whip, summed up their sentiment with these words:

"We've got pretty much done and we're going to do lots more."

Quarter Million Gather To Watch Crowning Of Pope

VATICAN CITY (AP) — Pope Paul VI dedicated his reign to world peace and Christian unity Sunday night, stressing the universality of his pledge with a coronation address in nine languages.

A quarter of a million spectators, the greatest throng ever to witness a papal coronation, jammed St. Peter's Square to see Paul VI crowned amid ritual splendor.

Speaking first in Latin and then in eight modern languages, the 262nd supreme pontiff of the Roman Catholic Church dedicated his reign to the twin goals of his world-acclaimed predecessor, Pope John XXIII.

He appealed for sacrifice in the interest of world peace and acknowledged the "gravity of the obstacles" on the road to Christian unity. He warned that neither goal can be reached easily.

In the highlight of the 2½ hour ceremony, Alfredo Cardinal Ottaviani placed a new lightweight beehive crown on the head of Pope Paul, the former Giovanni Battista Cardinal Montini of Milan.

As he did so, he said: "Receive this tiara, adorned with three crowns, and know that you are the father of princes and kings, guide of the world and vicar on earth of Christ Jesus our Savior."

The new spiritual ruler of half billion Roman Catholics opens his personal quest in the cause of peace Tuesday in a historic meeting with President Kennedy, first Roman Catholic chief executive of the United States.

If Pope Paul continues changes instituted by Pope John in Vatican relations with Communist countries, eventually he may also receive Soviet Premier Khrushchev.

The ceremony began as a brilliant summer sun settled into a violet sky.

The ceremony ran 2½ hours into the night.

Traffic Kills 14, 13 Are Drown

By The Associated Press

At least 14 persons died in traffic accidents and 13 drowned as thousands flocked to Michigan roads and recreation spots during the weekend.

The deaths were counted by the Associated Press during the period from 6 p.m. Friday to midnight Sunday.

Chester Kelts, 74, of Sault Ste. Marie, was killed in a car-pedestrian accident at the intersection of M-129 and 20th Street in Sault Ste. Marie Sunday.

Larry Menghini, 19, of Kingsford, drowned Saturday night in Cowboy Lake inside the city limits of Kingsford. Police said Menghini drowned about 30 feet from shore despite an attempt by a companion to rescue him. The body was recovered.

Robbie Herberster, 17, of Samaria in Maize County, drowned in a lake in Sunset Acres Park Saturday while bathing. The body was recovered.

Clifford Nelson, 13, of Escanaba, drowned Saturday at the Escanaba municipal bathing beach.

Frances Paquette, 8, of Marquette, drowned Saturday while bathing in a quarry pool near the city. Her body was recovered.

Committee Calls For Integration In Building Trades

DETROIT (AP)—The Operation Negro Equality (ONE) Committee today told Mayor Jerome Cavanagh it will act if the Detroit building trades are not integrated in 30 days and sought the mayor's aid and support.

In a letter, the committee advised Cavanagh that ONE has issued a 30-day ultimatum to the Building Trades Council.

The letter was signed by Horace L. Sheffield, administrative vice president of the Trade Union Leadership Council, and Dr. Leon Shepard of the Cottillion Club.

The letter asserted the committee's impatience and said the ultimatum is the first step in a carefully planned series.

Possible New Break Appears In Soviet Front

BERLIN (AP)—Soviet satellite leaders headed home today after a weekend meeting with Premier Khrushchev, apparently called to renew support for him in his worsening dispute with Communist China.

Janos Kadar of Hungary left for Budapest Sunday night. Wladyslaw Gornulka of Poland flew back to Warsaw today.

The show of unity was marred by the conspicuous absence of Romania's veteran Red leader, George Gheorghiu-Dej. This roused speculation there may be a new break in the Red facade.

Khrushchev will address a rally here Tuesday, the East Berlin press announced.

Khrushchev told an East German audience Sunday night that communism stands "as firm as granite." But the gap in the ranks of the European Reds standing glumly around him underlined the growing crisis in the world Communist movement.

Also absent—as expected—was Albania which has supported Communist China in its dispute with the Soviet Union.

Calling For Support

Romania's absence was all the more glaring since Khrushchev presumably summoned his satellite chiefs to muster support for conference with the Red Chinese which opens in Moscow Friday.

Red China declared today that its quarrel with the Soviet Union had grown from an ideological dispute to a question of government relations.

It said it still intends to send a delegation to Moscow to discuss differences but emphasized that it will hold to its tough line.

A Chinese Communist party statement charged that the Soviet expulsion of five Chinese from the Soviet Union last week constituted a "serious step in further worsening of Chinese-Soviet relations and in manufacturing a split in the international Communist movement."

Four Chiefs Grim

Ostensibly the European Red leaders gathered in East Berlin to celebrate the birthday of East German Communist leader Walter Ulbricht, who was 70 Sunday. But as the Red brass assembled, it became apparent the meeting had a more significant purpose.

Albania, North Korea and North Viet Nam have committed themselves openly to Peking. They have endorsed the Chinese view that Khrushchev's efforts to avoid nuclear war with the West have carried him out of the sphere of revolutionary communism.

Addressing birthday greetings to Ulbricht, the Soviet premier praised him for his support of the international Communist movement.

The audience of some 3,000 East Germans cheered enthusiastically when Khrushchev pledged that Germany would one day be united but under communism.

But there was little enthusiasm in the grim faces of four major Soviet bloc leaders—Janos Kadar of Hungary, Antonin Novotny of Czechoslovakia, Todor Zhivkov of Bulgaria and Wladyslaw Gornulka of Poland.

Quadruplet Girls Born In Chicago To Young Mother

CHICAGO (AP) — Quadruplet girls were born to a 19-year-old mother Sunday and a doctor said their chance for survival was excellent.

Ten minutes separated the births of the first and fourth daughters of Dolores Harris. The Negro infants weighed, in order of delivery, 4 pounds 10 ounces, 4 pounds 15 ounces, 4 pounds 14½ ounces and 4 pounds 7½ ounces. They were moved to Michael Reese Hospital's premature nursery soon after birth where all were reported "doing fine."

Mrs. Harris had been given special care by the hospital since March 30 when physicians discovered she was bearing four babies. "It was more difficult for us because we knew that four children were coming," said her husband, Bernard, 23, a factory worker.

The Harris also have a son, Shawn, who is 15 months old.

Crown Roni Rose Centennial Week Queen In Escanaba

Blond and pretty Miss Roni Rose, 20, is Escanaba's Centennial Queen, crowned last evening in a climax of ceremonies at Ludington Park. The crown was placed upon her head by Mayor Harold Vanlerberghe.

Thousands of persons gathered at the Karas Memorial Bandshell to see the parade queen candidates and applaud announcement of Miss Rose as winner of the contest. She is the daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Ray L. Rose of 624 S. 19th St.

Announcement of Queen Roni as winner of the contest broke the tension that has been mounting since events began in April. The 4 girls who will serve as the members of the Queen's Court are Misses Peggy Munson, Sue Virgo, Sally Benson and Jewell Pree.

Red Satin Gown

Miss Rose was the leading contender in the contest for the past several weeks and was an ardent worker for Centennial promotion.

At the coronation ceremonies the new queen wore a stunning gown of red satin over white ruffled nylon. It featured bouffant leg omutton sleeves and a high standing collar. Her beautiful long hair was fashioned in a typical 1865 style an—upsweep with a lock falling over her shoulder.

As Centennial Queen she will reign over all the activities during the busy week and will be the Centennial Corporation in the U. P. State Fair Queen Contest. She was also presented with a $50 U. S. Savings Bond.

Busy Schedule

Queen Roni and her court will have a busy round of events for the remainder of Centennial Week.

This evening at Ludington Park the Peterson School of the Dance will present a revue starting at 6:30, followed by a concert by the Escanaba City Band, and at 8:30 a style show. All of the events are staged at the Karas Memorial Bandshell.

The Wisemen's Band will play for street dancing starting at 8 p.m. on Sheridan Road and 14th Ave. N.

Last evening the Escanaba Yacht Club's Venetian Night brought to a colorful conclusion the program at the park.

The Venetian Night presented a spectacle of color and motion in which about 25 boats participated.

To Dedicate College

On Sunday afternoon in the Centennial races seagull class boats competed for a trophy sponsored by the Yacht Club. Bill Boyce came in first, sailing the four-mile triangular course in 37 minutes. Pete Boyce placed second, sailing the course in 38 minutes.

A highlight of the Tuesday program will be the dedication of the Delta County's new Bay de Noc Community College. This is scheduled for 6:30 p.m. in the College grounds, the former Escanaba Senior High School building. The City Band will play beginning at 6:15.

Events At Park

Teen agers will gather at Ludington Park as early as 10 a.m. for the scheduled pie baking and pie eating contests. There will also be bicycle races.

Noontime box lunches, Go-Kart races, and a Hootenanny song fest will follow. There will be swimming and diving contests at the municipal beach starting at 2:30. The Skerbeck Shows will be in Ludington Park all this week.

The bands and oostles will parade at 6 p.m. in Ludington Park from the fountain to the bandshell; fishing contests will be underway in the marina; and at 7 p.m. the Edith Lawrie School of the Dance will present a program at the bandshell.

The crowds will then hear the Barbershop Chorus and from the park will move to Ludington St. where dancing will be enjoyed to the music of Staff LeDuc's Dixielanders.

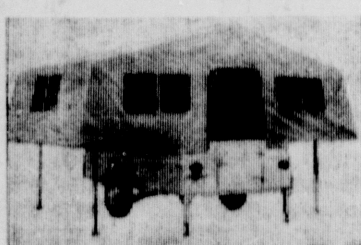

Chicago Is Host To 54th Annual NAACP Gathering

CHICAGO (AP)—The National Association for the Advancement of Colored People's 54th annual convention, termed by leaders as "the most important in our history" opens today for a six-day stand.

Officials said more than 2,000 delegates from 1,649 chapters in the nation will study all phases of the Negro's fight for equality, both in the North and the South.

A massive parade is planned for Thursday, July 4, with a giant outdoor rally to follow in Grant Park as a kickoff for what NAACP officials called "Our summer of discontent."

Long Battle Over Civil Rights Bill Starts In Senate

WASHINGTON (AP) — Atty. Gen. Robert F. Kennedy carries the fight for the administration's civil rights program to the Senate today, where a long, bitter battle and a probable filibuster loom before it.

He was called by the Senate Commerce Committee as the first witness on legislation to force desegregation of stores, restaurants, hotels, theaters and other privately-owned businesses serving the public.

This is just one part of the seven-point bill submitted to Congress, but it was introduced separately in the Senate in a strategic maneuver aimed at speeding action.

Born in Lac du Flambeau, Wis., Sept. 4, 1896, he was retired after being employed as custodian of the State Bank of Escanaba.

Mr. Ludwig was a member of the Masonic Lodge of Escanaba, the Chapter and Commandry, and the Moose Lodge.

Surviving are his wife, Martha, of Escanaba, his mother, Martha Ludwig of Corpus Christi, Texas; a sister, Mrs. Jack Hogan of Corpus Christi, and a nephew, Lynn A. Everson of Corpus Christi.

The body will lie in state at the Anderson Funeral Home after 4 p.m. Tuesday and complete funeral services will be held Wednesday at 3 p.m. at the funeral home with the Rev. Karl J. Hammar of the Central Methodist Church officiating. Burial will be in the family lot in Lakeview Cemetery.

Long Battle Over Civil Rights Bill Starts In Senate

The complete package, including the public accommodations provisions, has been sent to the Senate Judiciary Committee headed by Sen. James O. Eastland, D-Miss., foe of civil rights measures.

Administration leaders don't expect any fast action by Eastland's committee. But they are looking to the Commerce Committee, under the chairmanship of Sen. Warren G. Magnuson, D-Wash., to move the public accommodations bill along without delay.

Magnuson said in a television interview Sunday that there may be some amendments, such as exempting smaller businesses, but predicted his committee would approve the basic provision of the administration's public accommodations bill.

Once this bill is brought before the Senate, other parts of the president's program could be offered as amendments to it. Or an alternative course would be to wait for the House to act on the whole package and then take it up when it reaches the Senate.

Assistant Senate leader Hubert Humphrey of Minnesota has said, "We cannot expect to get through the Senate any bill stronger than that the House votes."

Either way, a Southern filibuster probably will have to be overcome to get the legislation passed. To cut off debate and force a showdown will take a two-thirds majority of Senators voting.

Woelford had just finished waterskiing and was watching other members of the club going through paces on the bay. He said he heard a splash in the water, but because there were swimmers in the area didn't pay too much attention thinking it was one of them.

Moments later he chanced to look into the water and saw a figure, fully clothed, lying on the bottom thrashing about trying to surface. Woelford quickly dove into the water and brought young Reno to safety.

While no one actually saw the Reno boy fall into the water it is believed that he was walking along a cat-walk built for the waterski club. Mr. and Mrs. Reno upon hearing of Woelford's heroic act went to his home to express their appreciation.

Charles Follo, vice chairman of the board of trustees of the college, will be master of ceremonies and the invocation will be given by the Rt. Rev. Martin B. Melican, pastor of St. Patrick's Church.

President Richard Rinehart of the college will speak on its purposes and John A. Lemmer will memorialize the late Mrs. Catherine Bonifas, whose gift of $100,000 to create the college has been matched by the state.

Dean Gannon's address will bring the state's greetings to the community and its new college and he will present a plaque to Chairman Joseph L. Heirman of the board of trustees.

The benediction will be by the Rev. Charles P. Hazard, pastor of the West Delta Parish, Congregational Church, Rapid River.

Some stores which do not open until 9:30 may not open until after the parade and some food stores indicate that they might not close.

Among the participants in the dedication program at the new Escanaba Area High School at 1 p.m. Sunday were, from left: Norman Arntzen, of G. Arntzen Architect & Co., who presented the building to the board of education; Superintendent Walter Bright; Dr. Harold Sponberg, president of Washburn University, Topeka, Kas.; E. G. Bennett, president of the board of education, and former Superintendent John A. Lemmer. (Daily Press Photo)

Sponberg Lauds Local Tradition Of School Support

"This House of Intellect that drenches the City of Escanaba with light will never quite be finished," said President Harold Sponberg of Washburn University, Topeka, Kansas in dedicating the new Escanaba Area High School in ceremonies in the gym at 1 p.m. Sunday that were a highlight of Escanaba's Centennial opening.

"The earth may soon be turned for another school. There will be a new group of youngsters coming this fall, our task is eternal. Our city is drenched with light. It must never go out. It must burn always in the temple of learning." Dr. Sponberg, former vice president at Northern Michigan University traced the light of the human mind and spirit from the academies of ancient Athens to modern Escanaba in a stirring address heard by hundreds after Norman Arntzen of G. Arntzen Architect & Co. turned the key to the new high school over to E. G. Bennett, retiring president of the Escanaba Area Board of Education.

Project Leaders
Supt. Walter Bright introduced and honored as persons significantly responsible for the new high school: Dr. Louis Groos, Mrs. Norman L. Lindquist and Charles Folio, former members of the board of education; Mrs. John O'Brien and Jack Williams, retiring members; Dr. Roy Johnson, a former member who was absent; former Principal Edward Edick, Principal Stephen Baltic, former superintendent John A. Lemmer "who did so much in his leadership of the school district." Howard Kern of Perkins & Will, associated with the Arntzen Co. as design architects; James Stewart, project engineer; Edwin Jachinski of Caspian Construction Co., the builders, and board members Jack Manning; Dr. William Hemes, Arol Beck and Frank Bender. The blessings were given by the Rev. Donald Shiroda and Rev. Erland Carlson, and music was provided by the high school choir directed by Conrad Beck and the junior high school band directed by David Laakso.

"The Greeks were pacesetters in all forms of human endeavor," said Dr. Sponberg "particularly in the intellectual realm. Their spirit remains, the Greek spirit that provided a love of knowledge and the importance of education, the Greek spirit that made the mind free to think and doubt, to believe and to fear. Today's Plato's little academy has become a million academies like this. Today we dedicate this building as a monument to education everywhere."

"Maxwell Anderson said Athens was a city drenched with light, the light of frank and restless inquiry, the light of learning, the light that helps us pursue knowledge. This light has flooded every corner of our lives, our courts, our theaters, our athletic games, our market places, our centers of finance and business. This has been our genius, a genius for light!"

"So today with the dedication of this building, this workshop for learning, we find the City of Escanaba drenched with light. The Escanaban mind, hungry for facts, the Escanaban search for truth, the Escanaban vigor and courage in building anew in order to preserve the legacy of learning that has pervaded this community for 100 years. Today this is a city drenched with the light of knowledge, of learning, of teaching, of wisdom."

"How appropriate that you have launched your Centennial celebration with dedication of your area public high school, a fitting emphasis of the priority education enjoys in this community."

College Dedication

"How fitting that your Centennial will also dedicate your new Bay de Noc Community College, an example of the further light spreading over the whole Delta County area."

"Our genius for light is unique among the nations of the world, for the American concept, unlike Athens', was early established to provide that all the children of all the people should be educated. This fresh application of the Northwest Ordinance dictum of 1787 that 'Religion, morality and knowledge, being necessary to good government and the happiness of mankind, schools and means of education shall forever be encouraged', was given new application in the development of Michigan. This state has been and continues to be on the leading edge of educational progress."

"Today is an occasion for gratitude and commendation to all of you who have shared in the construction of this magnificent edifice. The design and beauty of this building sheds new light over the entire city and brings honor upon the greater Escanaba community."

"The citizens who approved and supported the program are to be sincerely congratulated. The satisfactions for such an important and timely investment will be greatly rewarding in the years ahead. You have struck a new blow for educational progress."

Board Is Lauded

"In particular the school board members, who have served as they always do without remuneration, and out of a sincere concern for youth, are to be congratulated. Their vision and understanding are noteworthy, but of greater consequence is their unswerving courage in presenting the need for teachers, buildings and dollars when such issues were somewhat less than popular."

"Editor Lott taught the first school here and John Lemmer gave 38 years of his life to the public schools. He has stood as a tall pine in the field of education. His was the leadership that brought to fruition the building which we dedicate today. He has drenched this city in the light of up-to-date education."

"This has been a superb demonstration of community development into a single cooperative entity. Seeing the building now steadily and seeing it whole, we sense a deep feeling of civic pride."

"The Escanaba Area is unique in its system of benefactions in the names of Read, Young, Oliver, Norton, Bonifas and others. It must be hoped that the commitment of the community to quality education, despite punishing tax laws, will continue this tradition. That we will not shut off the youngsters from the chance of being good."

Quality Is Goal

"While the past century was a battle for quantity in education the next hundred years will be more concerned about the quality of education for the increasing quantity of students. Schools will be increasingly concerned about preparation of young people for citizenship."

"Our educational system is the costliest in the world. It is sometimes wasteful, but a great solvent which smooths out incompatibilities, social and economic differences. Our program of education has reduced those drastic conflicts in political life that pit class against class and group against group. Education is a kind of statesmanship."

"Since World War II we have subjected the public schools to vigorous analysis, sometimes to intemperate criticism, but our system of education has demonstrated its superiority in winning a major share of international educational and scientific prizes. While Russia produced only two winners in the Nobel prize awards during the half century, the United States has won 23 per cent of all such awards."

"During the past 20 years that the critics have been particularly vocal and strident, the basic skills have been taught more effectively than ever before, in greater amount, to more youngsters, with better instruments and with more able teachers in better quality buildings. Free enterprise and free public schools are interdependent."

"Thomas Jefferson said if a nation expects to be ignorant and free it expects what never was and never will be."

First woman to represent the U. S. in a foreign country was Ruth Bryan Owen, minister to Denmark by President Franklin Roosevelt.

Enjoy Yourself

Escanaba will be host to thousands of persons this week in its Centennial Celebration. They're all welcome and the community hopes they'll share it's 100th birthday jubilation.

Escanaba has had many problems in a century, but many triumphs, too, and a mountain of joy in a good life. Now for a week it looks backward, around it and ahead and celebrates its Centennial. No other community birthday is as meaningful as this one; in Old World communities that have passed their millenium the 100 year marks become like annuals, but that first 100 years is the greatest, like a millionaire's first million; hardest to make and most memorable.

Mrs. Reynold Gustafson of 1711 1st Ave. S. has reminisced nostalgically and pertly on life when Escanaba was young and on life today:

"A century ago women wore hoopskirts, bustles, petticoats, corsets, cotton stockings, high buttoned shoes, flannel nightgowns and puffs in their hair and they did their own baking, cleaning and washing and raised big families; went to church on Sunday and were too busy to be sick.

"Today women wear nylon stockings, short skirts, low shoes, no corsets, an ounce of underwear. They bob their hair, smoke, paint and powder, drink cocktails, play bridge, drive cars, have pet dogs and politick.

"Men used to wear whiskers, square hats, red flannel underwear and big watches. They chopped wood for the kitchen stove, bathed once a week, drank 10 cent whisky and 5 cent beer, rode bicycles, buggies or sleighs, worked 12 hours a day and lived to a ripe old age.

"Men today have high blood pressure, wear no hats,—and some no hair—shave their whiskers, play golf, bath twice a day, play the stock market, ride airplanes, never go to bed the same day they get up, work 5 hours a day and play 10 and die young.

"Stores used to burn coal oil lamps, carried everything from a needle to a plow, trusted everybody, never took inventory, placed orders a year in advance and always made money.

"Stores today have electric lights, cash registers, elevators, take inventory daily, have overhead, mark-up, mark-down, quotas, budgets, advertising, stock control, annual, semi-annual, end-of-month, dollar day, founder's day, rummage, economy day and white sales.

Mrs. Gustafson's having fun and providing some for others, but she knows, and so should everyone, that some of these flippancies are wrong as rain on a picnic.

After a century it's obvious to everyone who knows the actual conditions of the century's beginnings that:

Women are much more sensibly dressed—and ever so much more attractive—today than in 1863.

People's health is immeasurably better today than then; in no other field of progress has there been more spectacular progress than in medicine. We live much longer.

Men are still a bit old fashioned about dress, according to the stylists, but they're changing their attire gradually.

Whisky costs no more today than in 1863, and probably less, in terms of real income.

Stores have so much more to sell today than in 1863 that they have to have sales to remind people of their myriad offerings. The days of prunes and bolt goods are happily past.

Anyone with a hankering for the "good old days" can have them back in a swoosh by abandoning the family car, forgoing vaccines and dental care, throwing out the TV set, subscribing to a rural weekly, neglecting the bathtub, reducing his pay, spending some time in a horse barn, and dying at an early age. The line forms on the right.

Home, Swift Home

The room may seem a little cramped for some people. But it has a lot of window space and usually is quite sunny. It is amazingly adaptable. No room available is so truly an all purpose area.

The chairs are close enough together to form a good conversational grouping. So it's a spot that can serve as a social setting, an office, or even a conference room.

With almost no change you can make it into a bar, or a cozy love nest. Occasionally, if specially fitted out, it will function as a small bedroom.

The place admittedly is too small for good television viewing but is fine for radio. And the scene from the windows is richly varied.

Where do you find so serviceable a room, in this age when personal comfort appeals above all else?

Just stick your head into your garage, or your carport, and you'll see it sitting there—on four wheels.

The Hard Way To Write Law

The Doctor Says: Breath-Holding Is Scarey

By Dr. Wayne G. Brandstadt, M.D.

About the worst thing that can happen when a child holds his breath until he is blue is that he will scare his mother half to death. Some infants in an attack of breath-holding may lose consciousness for a few seconds, and may even have mild convulsions.

When this happens the involuntary centers of the brain take over, breathing is resumed, and the child's color returns to normal. These attacks may start when the child is only 9 to 10 months old and continue until he is 4 or 5 years old. Such extreme behavior is rare after this age.

The first thing for the mother to remember is that the child will come out of the attack without any help from her. It is impossible for anyone to hold his breath long enough to cause death, or even damage to tissues from lack of oxygen. The second thing to remember is that the cause is always a sudden fright, fear, anger, or frustration.

Punishment will only aggravate the attacks, which in some children may occur several times a day. On the other hand, these attacks should not be made an excuse for overindulgence or giving in to the child's every whim.

Most children who have these attacks are emotionally high-strung. Often this is a reflection of emotional tensions and turmoil in the household. The mother should ignore the attacks, but make doubly sure between bouts to let the child know he is loved.

Don't call your doctor in the middle of the night about this problem. Wait until the next regular checkup, and then mention it to him.

A few of these children have been found to have anemia and will be helped by medicines that return the blood elements to normal. A few others have correctable defects. The overwhelming majority are the type that get so mad they just can't take a single breath.

Q—Our baby has club feet.

What can be done for him?

A—This is easily corrected if appropriate measures are applied early. Club feet are rotated inward at the ankles. Since this is due to abnormal pulling of one group of muscles and not to any bony deformity, the mother should straighten the feet and rotate them outward many times a day.

This will cause some pain, so the feet should not be held in a position of overcorrection for more than a few seconds at a time. When your baby is old enough to start walking your doctor may want him to wear corrective shoes.

In some cases, wearing the right shoe on the left foot and vice versa is all that is necessary. Orthopedic shoes are stiffer than regular infant shoes and should not be used unless definitely prescribed by your doctor.

Edson In Washington Romney Parades With Wyandotte

By PETER EDSON

WASHINGTON—(NEA)—As of now, you can put down Sen. Barry Goldwater of Arizona as a man who would rather be grand marshal of a rodeo in Prescott, Ariz., on July 4 than to be present as guest of honor at the "Draft Goldwater for President Independence Day Rally" in Washington's National Guard Armory.

Cynics may ask, "Who wouldn't?" The senator's advisors may argue, "This just shows how politically smart he really is."

Such comments are beside the point. Goldwater can plead "previous engagement" to go campaigning in his home state.

But in staying away from the Washington rally the senator is sticking to his announced determination not to become a GOP presidential candidate. Not just yet, at any rate.

A Goldwater rally without Goldwater may be like cold mashed potatoes without meat or hot gravy for his hungry fans. But Republican Sen. John G. Tower of Texas, Reps. John Ashbrook of Ohio and Paul Fannin of Arizona have been booked to make up for that as orators for the Draft Goldwater rally at 8 p. m. on the Fourth. A band concert at 7 and an all-star supporting cast of professional actors headed by Eileen Zimbalist Jr., will whoop things up before and between speeches.

They can be counted on to ring the rafters and give Old Glory such a waving as it hasn't had since William Jennings Bryan held forth on the Chautauqua circuit years ago.

The rally will compete with the usual fireworks display on Washington Monument grounds—barring a rainstorm, in which case the crowds may seek shelter in the Armory.

Most Washington residents who can get out of town over the Fourth do so. But the National Draft Goldwater Committee under Texas GOP State Chairman Peter O'Donnell Jr., in charge of arrangements, is taking care of that. Trainloads and plane loads of Goldwater enthusiasts, he says, are preparing to descend on Washington and fill the Armory to overflowing.

Meanwhile, the object of all this affection will be nearly 2,000 miles away. He will be photographed, probably on a horse and waving a big hat. This makes a more exciting picture than with his mouth open delivering a speech, which is an everyday occurrence.

In Prescott he will be campaigning for re-election as senator from Arizona, which is the only political office he is now openly seeking. A year from now things may be different. July 4, 1964, will be just nine days before the Republican National Convention is scheduled to open in San Francisco.

If Goldwater isn't an avowed candidate for the GOP presidential nomination by then, he should be.

Political observers in Washington and elsewhere are beginning to believe that a race next year between President Kennedy and Senator Goldwater would be one of the healthiest things that could happen in America.

It would settle for some time to come, maybe, the issue of conservatism versus liberalism. It would let the American people decide whether they want the United States run by the policies Kennedy stands for, or the opposite policies that Goldwater stands for.

It has become increasingly apparent in recent weeks that Goldwater is the only Republican presidential possibility who can rally support from the thousand or more right-wing splinter groups.

They don't go for New York

Gov. Nelson Rockefeller and they might not for Michigan Gov. George Romney. None of the other favorite son Republicans being mentioned for the presidential nomination has enough support at this writing to be worth bothering about.

So They Say

There is a coincidence between happy marriage and education—the more the better.—Dr. David Fulcomer, marriage and family professor, Colorado Women's College.

The egotism of many rich people, their blindness, is a more serious problem (in South America) than communism itself. — Dom Helder Camera, auxiliary archbishop of Rio de Janeiro.

I fully understand that the past casts a divisive shadow between our peoples. I beg you to believe me that countless Germans together with myself have condemned that criminal (Nazi) regime.—Franz Josef Strauss, West German defense minister, in Israel.

If I'm put in the position where I have to take it (presidential nomination), I won't be a reluctant tiger. I'll get out and fight.—Republican Sen. Barry Goldwater.

LANSING (AP)—The City of Wyandotte will hold its annual Fourth of July parade again this year, and for Gov. George Romney, the walk down the main drag will be a sentimental journey.

The governor passed up invitations to numerous other Independence Day events around the state in order to be what he regards as a milestone in his political life.

It was just a year ago—July 4, 1962—that Romney, an automotive executive bidding for major political office for the first time, discovered the value of walking, instead of riding, in a parade.

"It also was the first time he really got out and pumped hands with the public," recalled Richard Milliman, the governor's press secretary.

"I think many of us, Romney included, have come to regard that Wyandotte parade as the real beginning of the campaign for governor, and a kind historical event in his career."

What made the Wyandotte celebration significant, in the opinion of his aides, was that Romney got involved in it almost by accident.

There had been some pressure in the downriver community for the council to invite Romney, the Republican candidate, as well as Democratic Gov. John Swainson, to ride in the parade. The council refused.

Romney was in town, however, for a speech to some 100 persons at the local "Romney Volunteers" headquarters and made his way to the parade scene just as the crowd was gathering.

"He walked up one side of the street and down the other, for about six blocks," said Milliman. "He tried to shake hands with everybody. The response was very good."

John McCauley, a Wyandotte Democrat who had served with Romney in the Constitutional Convention, got him into the street long enough to meet the mayor and other city officials while the crowd watched.

By the time the parade actually got rolling, Romney was on his way to another celebration in Northville and Swainson, in one of the last cars, had been upstaged.

The lessons learned by Romney in the Wyandotte parade were applied later when he appeared without invitation at the United Auto Workers' retirees picnic on Belle Isle and in Detroit's Labor Day parade.

Romney still walks in parades. "It's the only way to be in one," he said last month after walking a mile up Sault Ste. Marie's main street during dedication ceremonies for the new International Bridge.

Wyandotte isn't the only stop on the governor's Fourth of July itinerary.

His day will begin at the dedication of a senior citizens park in neighboring Ecorse. Following the Wyandotte events, he will go to Ulica for another parade, the crowning of a queen, and a "Let Freedom Ring" program.

Harnischfeger Says Foreign Aid Perils Solvency

"A good friend of mine who heads one of the largest basic industries in Germany told Hitler seven times that Germany didn't have the industrial potentials to accomplish what he had in mind," Walter Harnischfeger told the banquet session of the Upper Peninsula Dental Society convention Saturday night at the House of Ludington.

"With six per cent of the world population, we in America, are following the same pattern step by step. We do not have the industrial potentials to dominate the world, either. Our allies will leave us as they did in Korea. The only practical solution is to keep the home base strong."

Harnischfeger, chairman of the board of directors of Harnischfeger Corp., and honorary chairman of Citizens Foreign Aid Committee, was given a standing ovation by the dentists and their wives after his plea for American policies which will relate our foreign economic aid and military aid commitments to our means, require our allies to bear a more equitable share of the burden, and put more development of the underdeveloped nations on a private basis.

Industrial Clinic

He was introduced by Dr. Vern Johnson, retiring president of the U. P. Dental Society, as a man "who brought an industry to Escanaba that has become one of our largest employers."

"We feel that we're part and parcel of the area," said Harnischfeger. "We operate throughout the world and it is part of our policy to become part of the community. This community has our second largest operations in America and it presents opportunities to aid the community as well as ourselves."

Harnischfeger told the dentists that his company in its main plant in Milwaukee had inaugurated a dental clinic to serve employees on company time. The dentist suggests proper procedures which are handled by the employee's own dentist. "We found the condition of teeth of the average employee very much in need of specialized attention, he said. "I am very much opposed to socialized medical or dental work, but I believe a program such as we have developed channels this work into the proper areas under the free enterprise system."

A manufacturer of heavy machinery who has done business abroad for many years and whose company has manufacturing partnerships in many countries of the world, Harnischfeger says "I'm not an isolationist. I have had an opportunity to observe the operation of building up underdeveloped countries. This is not an easy problem and the conditions vary in each part of the world."

Complex Process

"Our State Department is endeavoring to develop a uniform program to build up these areas in a matter of a decade. To build up any economy under the fundamental philosophy of free enterprise takes many years of education as well as the proper climate for industries to grow from within. Development of markets requires years of promotional efforts and know-how that private enterprise alone possesses."

"I was one of the first Americans into Europe after World War II as a civilian under Army orders. I personally had much to do with reversing the (Morgenthau Plan) policy (to de-industrialize Germany and turn it into a cow pasture that couldn't make war). To rebuild Europe we were justified to render assent aid, but this effort could have been brought about at substantial saving if we had used existing banking channels to loan these funds."

"Six years ago many of my friends in business became concerned over our continuous wasteful appropriations and our chronic substantial national budget deficits. During the last 32 years our budget has been balanced only three times."

Strong At Home

"I reluctantly agreed to organize a committee to rationalize foreign aid, which I assumed could be cleaned up in two years. Today, six years later, the situation is deteriorating from bad to worse. We agreed that our major responsibility in straightening our global give-away program was to keep the home base strong. Our No. 1 obligation of government was to protect our internal economy and insure a solvent America."

"We proposed a liquidation of the aid program within three years. We also recommended that private industry and private banking assume the major responsibility for building up the underdeveloped countries. We recommended a careful screening of many billions of previous appropriations and that as much as possible of these funds be used to reinsure American private credits and investments."

"If these recommendations had been adopted in 1959 we would not now face chronic deficits and the unfavorable balance of payments with the resulting flight of gold. Unless this situation is controlled an international fiscal crisis is inevitable.

Sharing The Burden

"In economic aid our No. 1 consideration should be to spend what our nation can afford. We spend more of our actual resources on defense than the rest of the free world combined. If we were to reduce our defense burden to the level of the United Kingdom we would release $15 billion in taxes for civilian needs."

"If our European allies were to pick up 2 percentage points of our defense costs, relative to the gross national product, we could reduce taxes $10 billion and cut spending at the same time."

"Our vacillating policies in Cuba, our unwillingness to protect private enterprise and the Monroe Doctrine have resulted in a Communist Russian base with missiles 80 miles from our shore. Cuba is used to undermine every country in Latin America and they are succeeding."

"Our billions of loose gifts in Latin America have produced... outrages."

Need Citizen Interest

"To date, including interest on borrowed money, we have spent over $110 billion for foreign give-away. This is more than one-third of our national debt. When foreign aid began our gold reserve stood at $24.5 billion. By law we must retain $11.5 billion in gold to discipline our currency. Foreign central banks now hold some $23 billion in short term credits, all redeemable in gold. Should these banks call our gold we would have only $4.4 billion to meet a potential demand of $23 billion. It is little wonder that the free world, whose economy is tied to the dollar, is apprehensive about the U.S. economy."

"Communism is one of the great threats in the world, but we cannot buy our way out of communism by dissipating our resources. If we continue this wasteful program the Communists won't have to fight a war to attain their end. Every American Citizen must take more interest in affairs of government."

Escanaba Boy, 13, Drowns At Beach

Clifford Nelson, 13, the son of the Helmer Nelsons of 1193 Sheridan Road, drowned at the Escanaba Municipal Beach Saturday afternoon. Resuscitation efforts at the beach and at St. Francis Hospital continued for more than two hours.

Escanaba police said the boy had gone to the beach with Charles Schmidt, 14, of 1214 Stephenson Ave., and Gerald Erickson, 15, of 1126 N. 16th St.

Officers said the boys told them that they left the water and went to the beach house and that Clifford left them and reentered the water.

In water about seven feet deep the boy's body was seen at 1:50 p. m. by a boy who dove from the raft. Lifeguard John Fisher recovered the body and unsuccessful efforts were made to resuscitate the youth. The guards administered mouth-to-mouth breathing, and a physician gave heart massage externally.

The ministrations were continued while the boy was taken to the hospital and there oxygen and heart massage were continued until a physician pronounced the boy dead at 4 p. m.

The drowning was the first in 17 years in the supervised area of the municipal beach.

The contest will be open to all babies two through five years who have been residents of Delta County for the past six months. They will be judged on beauty, personality and poise. Prizes will be donated by the Fair Store, Kresge's Company and the City of Escanaba Recreation Department. Judges for the contest are: Mrs. Gerald Babel, Mrs. Ernest Belanger and Mrs. John Sankovitch. Art Petersen will be master of ceremonies for the baby contest.

The fireworks display, which will be one of the largest in many years, will be held the evening of July 4th in Ludington Park. The City Recreation Department is not in charge of the fireworks display this year but will assist the Centennial committee in setting up the necessary equipment and firing of the display.

Other activities have been planned by other committees and will be announced as they are presented.

Briefly Told

Traffic court summons have been issued by Escanaba police to Floyd R. Therrien, Wells, and William C. Bruner, 1223 Ludington St., both for defective equipment; Clayton C. Carlson, Cornell Rte. 2, improper starting; Fred P. Kosow, Gladstone Rte. 1, excessive muffler noise; and Daniel J. Arts, 1403 Washington Ave., failing to stop in the assured clear distance.

"A second thought on first aid"

We're constantly amazed at the number of children who cut, scrape and bruise themselves within sight (and sound) of our pharmacy. We do a big business in antiseptics, bandages, and other first-aid items. Same everywhere, probably. But sometimes we wonder if people don't depend too much on first aid—neglect proper medical attention. If there's the slightest question in your mind following what appears to be minor injuries, see your physician. First aid has definite limitations. You can only be sure of proper medical care by seeing your doctor. A prompt visit can save a half dozen later.

Hey, What Do They Call This Day Off Anyway?

By DICK KLEINER

NEW YORK—(NEA)—With muffled drums and muted fife, the ghosts of the minute-men would be forgiven if they set out to haunt their homeland this Fourth of July.

The glorious Fourth, they used to call it. From the freshly clipped town greens of New England to the yellow adobe town squares of the southwest, it was the time for unashamed flag-waving. Everybody came out to hear the speeches and the band. And later there was a ball game and a fireworks display.

The glorious Fourth. It was a day worthy of that adjective. Part holiday, part holy day; there was almost a religious intensity to the occasion. And if a few people drank too much beer or the kids had one hotdog too many—or somebody blew off a finger on a cherry bomb—well, it was all part of the Fourth of July.

The mangled fingers went out as state after state passed anti-fireworks laws. The watchword

Moonshiners Find Vat In Junkyard To Start Business

DOUGLASVILLE, Ga. (AP)—Would-be moonshiners found a ready-made piece of equipment in a Douglasville junkyard.

Police Chief Grady Traylor said a 3,000-gallon vat used in making illicit liquor was stolen from the yard. He said the thieves apparently loaded the large tank on a truck Friday and drove away.

The still was confiscated several weeks ago. Officers destroyed part of the apparatus, but gave the tank to the junkyard.

"Now all they've got to do is unload it, set up and they're in business," Traylor said.

became "a safe and sane Fourth," which was fine.

But there are many who look back on the old July 4 celebrations and figure that the change has been too drastic—the holiday is now safe, sane—and sterile.

The glorious Fourth has lost much of its glory.

Times have changed, of course. So have our cultural patterns. And today the Fourth of July to many of our citizens is just a day off. That is especially true if it happens to fall on a Monday or Friday, which means a three-day weekend.

"In the very small communities," says Daniel O'Connor, chairman of the American Legion's National Americanism Committee, "there has been no dwindling of the Fourth of July spirit. But in the larger cities and most of the middle-sized cities, I'm afraid that there has been a dwindling of that spirit."

"Take New York. Who stays in New York on a day off in the summer? Especially on a long holiday weekend. No, in urban areas, we've lost the spirit."

To those who blame this loss on the fireworks bans, O'Connor snorts: "Fireworks aren't the Fourth."

He thinks the change simply reflects changes in our way of life. Such items as the automobile, television, superhighways, swimming pools—all these have radically altered American cultural habits.

A Fourth of July rally can't compete with a chance to drive out in the country, picnic in a meadow, dip in the pool, watch a double-header on television—any of these 1963 diversions.

When Fourth of July observances are scheduled in cities, few people turn out. O'Connor doesn't think this means any lack of patriotic fervor among the populace. It simply indicates that the people have other things they'd rather do.

"Today," says another Legion spokesman, "the Fourth of July is a holiday for recreation exclusively."

Perhaps they hang the flag out. Probably they get a few sparklers for the children. Possibly they give a passing thought to the Declaration of Independence and our 187 years of liberty.

And then they pile in the car and jam the highways on their way to some place for fun.

Maybe at some point in the day—perhaps when they're stuck in traffic with a boiling radiator—they'll think back to the days when the Fourth of July meant something more than a day off.

Back to when the glorious Fourth was glorious.

Brides and brides-to-be should let their husbands help them in furnishing their homes, suggests Dede Draper, president of the National Society of Interior Designers.

"Homemakers have found that men are taking a more active interest in their homes. Men have a new appreciation for workmanship, now that they've been active in workshops, building and repairing. A few years ago a man would glance at a chair his wife proposed buying. Now he will turn it upside down to see how it is put together, study the doweling, and everything else about it," she says.

Once they are put to the test, you will find men have definite likes and dislikes, and it's good to find it out right away, she advises.

Men enjoy shopping for furnishings too, once they get interested. And that's a big change from the past, Miss Draper points out.

"They used to think decorating a home was the woman's business. They didn't want to get involved. But sometimes now we must hold up a job until the husband gets back from a business trip. Once they get interested they don't want anything bought when they aren't around," she says.

Many men are prejudiced about antiques until they realize an antique is not a thing that is falling apart—a general misconception—Miss Draper says. Once you explain that a piece of furniture that has stood up 200 years must be pretty good, they begin to have respect for it.

One man who wanted modern furnishings became so impressed with a mahogany Pembroke table that it changed his entire outlook on his home.

"It had that look of faded mahogany, an aged look that can't be duplicated, and he was so fascinated with the look of the wood that he wanted to learn more about old furniture," she says.

One mistake made by women who furnish their homes without the assistance of an interior designer is that they mispend funds, Miss Draper explains. A woman is likely to fall in love with a lush sofa, something she has always wanted, spending $1,200, or half her entire home furnishings budget for it.

"Some women run out and buy wall-to-wall carpet in a brilliant color such as a violent violet, then find too late that it won't go with anything else. It is too late to do anything about it. When you take up wall-to-wall carpet, strip it and redeye it, the size will change."

It is mistakes like these that have contributed to the rise of interior designers, Miss Draper says. Though many men in the past thought it was a waste of money to hire someone to help do a home, they now see it has advantages.

Besides money-saving techniques in choosing first-things-first furnishings, designers can pass on their knowledge of trends, she says.

"There are changes and trends that are always imminent. Right now the 10-year-beige binge is over; monochromatic color schemes are out; there is more interest in floors with a traditional feeling and English furniture and American Colonial furniture—not the early American rough country furniture."

"There are changes and trends that are always imminent. Right now the 10-year-beige binge is over; monochromatic color schemes are out; there is more interest in floors with a traditional feeling and English furniture and American Colonial furniture—not the early American rough country furniture."

Chain Will Build 250-Unit Motel In Downtown Detroit

DETROIT (AP)—A national motel chain—Holiday Inns of America—says it plans to build a 12-story, 250-unit motel in downtown Detroit. It would be the third Holiday Inns motel in the Detroit area.

Carl E. Webb, the chain's associate general counsel, declined comment on the cost of the project. Similar projects have cost between $2 million and $3 million.

Holiday Travel May Set Record

LANSING (AP) — It will be a glorious Fourth of July weekend, observed in as many ways as there are cities and villages in Michigan.

There will be fireworks, ringing of bells in Detroit, boat races in East Jordan and celebrations on Beaver and Mackinac islands.

The State Highway Department predicts that, with good weather, motorists will log a record 743 million vehicle miles on Michigan highways during the Fourth of July holiday.

This should top the previous high set in 1960 by some 35 million miles, the department said.

Patrols Increased

State police were mostly concerned about the number of highway deaths. Police said this weekend should be a good indicator of what to expect in the toll of those killed or injured while seeking holiday fun.

State police plan a constant patrol from noon Wednesday, July 3, until midnight Sunday, July 7. All available manpower will be utilized to cruise the highways, aided by 114 National Guardsmen. The concentration of police checking will be on trunkline highways from 3 to 9 p.m. daily.

There were nine fatalities last

Fourth of July over a 30-hour period. There were 12 deaths in 1961 over a comparable period. The traffic fatality high was in 1954 when 35 died in only a 78-hour period.

Highway traffic engineers agreed with police that the highest traffic volumes will be in the hours of 3 until 9 p.m. Sunday afternoon and evening also will show high rates between 2 and 10 p.m., they said.

Bells To Ring

Heaviest traffic volumes are expected on all main highways in and near Detroit.

Detroit—in the midst of its annual International Freedom Festival—will celebrate Independence Day by ringing every bell in the community at noon. Some 1,000 volunteers will ring the bells.

Gov. George Romney will ring a bell at Utica after he marches in parades there and at Wyandotte.

At East Jordan the holiday will mark the start of the Jordan Valley Festival with inboard boat races, canoe races and fireworks.

Beaver Island will hold a civic association celebration and Mackinac Island promises "an old fashioned Fourth celebration."

There will be an antique show in the Saugatuck-Douglas area, a horse show at Farwell, a canoe race in Ogemaw and Arenac counties on the Rifle River, a seaway festival at Muskegon and centennial celebrations at Hancock and Escanaba.

Vietnamese Kill 172 Communists

SAIGON, South Viet Nam (AP) — President Ngo Dinh Diem's forces claimed they killed 172 Communist guerrillas in weekend ground and air strikes in the Mekong River delta.

Vietnamese officers said 110 Reds were killed Sunday when an armored column struck at guerrillas in Kien Phong Province on the Plain of Reeds.

Fighter plane strikes Saturday killed 62 guerrillas, American sources said.

BELGRADE, Yugoslavia (AP) — Yugoslavia's Communist Parliament has unanimously re-elected Marshal Tito president of Yugoslavia for a fourth and unlimited term. He became president in 1953.

The nation's new constitution allows Tito, 71, to serve for life unless he decides to step aside.

PALERMO, Sicily (AP) — Nine persons were killed over the weekend in booby-trap explosions that may have been set by warring gang lords of the Sicilian Mafia. The booby traps were TNT-loaded cars. The victims were two garage workers and seven policemen. Both explosions took place in a Palermo suburb regarded as a Mafia prowling ground.

BERLIN (AP) — Weekend visitors from West Germany to Communist East Berlin were harassed by Red border guards, West police reported today.

West Germans who had day permits for visits with friends or relatives were questioned for up to five hours, the police said.

Communist authorities made no special difficulties for people entering East Berlin. The trouble started when the visitors began streaming back to the West.

TOKYO (AP) — The death toll from a weekend wave of landslides and rainstorms in southern Japan has mounted to 18, with 28 injured and 14 missing, national police said today.

Downpours Sunday flooded 31,870 homes in two Southern states alone, police said, causing 233 landslides and huge crop destruction. Property damage was estimated in tens of millions of dollars.

your Savings Bonds

Although a $25 U. S. Savings Bond is a promise from the government to pay you $25 for $18.75, the Bond itself is only paper. Which means it can be burned, washed away in a flood, or thrown away with the garbage (all of which have happened). In no case do you lose your money. For the U.S. Treasury has a microfilm record of your Bond hidden away in a secret vault, and has registered your name as its owner. This is one of the reasons why tens of millions of American families own $45 billion worth of Savings Bonds. What's more, the dollars you put into Bonds help your country stand up for freedom at a time when freedom's enemies are more determined than ever to have their way. Why not start buying Bonds today, and see if you don't feel pretty good about it.

Ann Landers

Dear Ann Landers: I decided the very next time I read some ditty advice out of you I would sit down and complain. Today is the day.

Your favorite expression is, "Tell 'em off." Sure, it's easy for you, safe out there in Chicago, to advise a woman in Longview, Washington, to "tell off" a nosy aunt who asks every day if she's pregnant yet. When some timid mouse in Appleton, Wisconsin, has trouble with a lecherous boss you say, "Tell him off!"

Last week it was more of the same. When relatives who owe you money buy themselves a new car, you say "Tell 'em off." And today, for the free-loading jerk who parks his carcass on the sofa and wears out the TV tubes, it's "Tell him off."

Don't you realize if these people had the nerve to tell somebody off they wouldn't be writing to you? Come down to earth old girl, and give your readers some practical help.—ANTI PRATTLE

Dear Anti: And what do you mean by "practical help?" Maybe I should go to Longview and Appleton and tell off the nosy aunt and the lecherous boss? Sorry, but telling people off is like sneezing. It doesn't do you any good unless you do it yourself.

A great many people who write for advice know full-well what they ought to do. They just need someone to give 'em a shove. So I shove 'em.

Dear Ann: I felt sad for the girl who signed herself "Crushed" because she wasn't asked to the Junior-Senior Prom. Here's how the situation is handled at one of our city's finest high schools.

The students in the junior and senior classes elect a Prom Committee—four boys and four girls. Their purpose is to see that every girl has a date. Two weeks before prom time they check to learn who is dateless. They then get busy and start match-making.

There are usually more girls than boys so the committee rounds up additional fellows from another school. They consider it their duty to see that every girl has an escort. Three of the fellows on the committee this year could have dated the cutest girls in school, but instead they asked some very plain girls who would have been difficult to fix up.

Result: Not a single girl missed the prom and I say—HOORAY FOR THEM

Dear Friend: I say hooray for them, too. I hope many up-coming juniors and seniors will see this column and clip it for future reference. It's an excellent idea.

Dear Ann Landers: How can I get rid of a pest who has been making me behave like a criminal? This guy is a real weed. He calls me on the phone every day and I can't think of anything to say. He comes over every night even if I tell him I have another date. When I see his car pull up to the curb I duck into the hall closet and either mom or dad tells him I just left. If he sees me first through the picture windows I'm stuck.

He has given me some expensive gifts which he thinks entitles him to my company. Some guys try to buy a girl this way, but I am not for sale. How can I get the idea across to him once and for all?—DODDLE BUG

Dear Bug: If you really want to get rid of the boy, bundle up those expensive gifts, return them and tell him good-bye. It is dishonest to accept tokens of affection when you can return nothing. And your parents should not participate in this cheap conspiracy. It's degrading both to them and to you.

Confidential to ANGEL OR SUCKER?: You have done more than your share. Move out of that loony bin before you're as goofy as the rest of them. And be sure to turn in your key or they may continue to charge you "rent."

Egyptian toy horses, dating from 500 B. C., are the oldest surviving toys.

greets to melt Tungsten. Steel flows at 2,500 degrees.

Both Molybdenum and Tungsten are used in space vehicles. Tungsten-alloyed steel is used in the hard tools required to build your automobile, and Molybdenum toughens the steel in such parts as ring gears and pinions and makes stainless steel trim stay brighter longer.

Molybdenum is used in the solid propellant engines of the Polaris and Atlas Missiles. Tungsten goes into some others where even tougher, high-temperature resistant metal is needed.

The Coldwater plant was built in 1959 to produce metallic Molybdenum by an electric arc method patented by the Michigan company's parent, American Metal Climax Inc. The same furnaces recently also have been turning out tungsten, too.

Mine In Colorado

Output of the Coldwater plant has been in Molybdenum ingots weighing 1,800 to 1,900 pounds, in bars of smaller and varying size and in Tungsten billets. Now it is moving into consumer products, not leaving the rolling and drawing to others.

The United States consumed an estimated 40 million pounds of Molybdenum in 1962, but only six per cent—or 2.4 million pounds—of it was refined down to pure metal. Most of it was drained off at various other stages of refinement, and approximately half the 40 million pounds went into alloying steel to make it less corrosive and more heat resistant.

High Molybdenum content steel is used in the giant heat exchangers at the Enrico Fermi Atomic Power Plant near Monroe, Mich. Superheated liquid sodium—a solid metal in its natural form—is circulated around Molybdenum-steel tubes and turns the water inside them to steam.

Climax gets its Molybdenum ore from a mine high up on Bartlett Mountain in the Colorado Rockies. Molybdenum sulfide is pitted about sparsely in solid granite rocks, about like raisins in a boarding house cake. A ton of rock yields four to six pounds of Molybdenum.

OPPORTUNITY RAINED

PRESTONSBURG, Ky. (AP)—A recent flood was disastrous to many residents along the Big Sandy River but to four enterprising men it was a glorious business opportunity.

They soon ran into a backlog of orders after establishing a house-raising service. They raise the houses on jacks and put in higher foundations, out of the water's reach.

Circus World Museum workmen begin restoration of a wagon

When The Circus Comes To Town

"The greatest circus parade of all time" is what Milwaukee, Wis., has planned for the 4th of July. Twenty-five old-time circus wagons from the Circus World Museum in Baraboo, Wis., and other sources have been readied for the big show. The wagons, plus three real circus calliopes, have been carefully restored, reconditioned and repainted in their original gay colors. Matched teams of more than 300 draft horses brought from as far away as New York and Ontario will draw the wagons. The parade sponsored by the Schlitz Brewing Co., will be swelled by units from Ringling Bros. and Barnum & Bailey Circus. It will be the first major circus parade anywhere in the country in some 40 years.

How a finished wagon looks is shown by this one, which bears a tableau honoring France.

A typical circus parade of the early '20s is recalled in this nostalgic old photograph.

New Mill Rolls Costly Metals

By A.F. MAHAN

COLDWATER (AP)—Michigan, one of the world's top producers of a metal more expensive than sterling silver, only recently has started producing here another which is almost twice as costly.

A new mill has just been installed to roll both these metals into sheets and bars.

One is Molybdenum; the other Wolfram, commonly known as Tungsten. It is hard to pronounce Molybdenum, a metal that stays hard at high temperature. Tungsten (tung-sten) is harder and stays that way at even higher degrees.

Sheets $90 A Pound
They're still tough in heat in which iron or even steel would become something like putty.

Molybdenum prices range from $15 a pound for bars to $90 per pound for sheets. Tungsten bars fetch $30 a pound. You can buy a pound of sterling silver for $18.63. Molybdenum metal first was produced 170 years ago, but it wasn't until the 1930s that even small-scale commercial production got under way.

The Coldwater plant of Climax Molybdenum Co. of Michigan has the capacity to turn out 1.3 million pounds of metallic Molybdenum a year—more than half that consumed in metallic form in the United States in 1962.

Tungsten now is being produced and has been rolled, along with Molybdenum, in the new processing mill. But the company says only it is making Tungsten here "on a development basis at this time." Other sources report experimentation finished or virtually so.

Made From Powder

Both Molybdenum and Tungsten are ticklish. They won't tolerate oxygen at extreme temperature.

They're converted from powder—that's right, powder—at Coldwater. The conversion has to be done in a vacuum or under an inert gas and at terrific heat.

It takes 4,730 degrees Fahrenheit to melt Molybdenum; 6,100 de-

No Mine Cavein Danger On U.S. 2

IRON RIVER (AP)—There now appears to be no danger that a section of highway U.S. 2 at Iron River might collapse into an abandoned mine, the Highway Department reports.

The department posted a 24-hour watch on a 200-foot section of the highway a month ago after area residents reported underground rumblings and vibrations.

County mine inspectors said shifting of stone and earth in the abandoned Delta Mine, on the edge of the highway and about 180 feet underground, apparently was the cause.

They said any cave-ins would occur within two or three weeks after the first rumblings were heard on May 24. The around-the-clock watch will be called off after Sunday, the Highway Department said.

LANSING (AP)—The new Construction Safety Commission, created by the 1963 legislature, was appointed Friday by Gov. George Romney.

His appointments, subject to the consent of the State Senate, include two construction employers' representatives, two employers' representatives and an insurance representative. The commission will establish safety ratings for contractors, designate safety rules and regulations for the construction industry, and investigate violations.

Representing construction workers will be L. M. "Boots" Weir of Mount Clemens and Stan Arnold of Brighton, president and secretary-treasurer, respectively, of the Michigan State Building and Construction Trades Council.

Representing employers will be Walter Couse of Detroit, a construction firm president, and Thomas Hammond of Battle Creek, a piping firm vice president.

Arthur Cowlin of Detroit, an official of the Michigan Workman's Compensation Rating Bureau, will represent the insurance industry.

LANSING (AP)—Atty. Gen. Frank Kelley has filed suit to recover $5,100 in retirement benefits paid a state employee after his death.

The suit, filed in Ingham County Court, names the Traverse City State Bank as defendant and demands repayment of the money.

The late Mrs. Agnes Hulbert of Traverse City, according to the attorney general, cashed the retirement checks after her husband's death in 1957 until her death in 1962.

Mrs. Hulbert forged her husband's name, Clarence V. Hulbert, on 52 checks during that time, signed her own endorsement and cashed them at the Traverse City State Bank, the attorney general said.

The payments were made by the state on the assumption that Mr. Hulbert was alive. Mrs. Hulbert allegedly did not notify the state of his death.

Paper Mill Resumes Full Operations

The Manistique Pulp and Paper Co. was scheduled to resume operations Saturday night, following a week's shutdown due to damage caused when a ground-wood storage tank exploded June 15.

The 2,000 KVA transformer was repaired and damaged switchgear, motors and transformer breakers have been replaced. Damage, including lost time, is in excess of $250,000, Frank S. Hollik, mill manager and president reports.

The storage tank will be replaced later. For the present operations will be with limited facilities and without a storage tank.

About two-thirds of the mill's employees have been off work since breakdown of the metal tank spilled liquid groundwood throughout sections of the mill, pushing a conveyor into the nearby Manistique River.

The sulfate storage building also was damaged and some machinery normally housed in it has been set outside, temporarily, due to unsafe condition of the building.

All maintenance personnel and more than 50 of the 87 members have indicated they will be attending with their wives or guests. They will be coming from as far as the East and West coasts.

Class Of 1948 Will Reunite

Modern mermaids believe in comfort at the beach. This model soothes her eyes with an eye lotion (left) after sunning and swimming. Her broad-brimmed hat (center) wards off some sun but she needs sunglasses for double protection against reflected sun rays. Reading in bright sunlight, even with sunglasses, is hard on eyes. Younger beachniks need greater protection when in the sun because of greater sensitivity. This junior miss (right) is properly outfitted with sunglasses and a hat for her happy, carefree days under summertime's sun.

Bathyscaphe Fails

In 5 Tries To Find Lost U-Boat

AT SEA. Aboard USS Fort Snelling (AP)—The bathyscaphe Trieste headed for an overhaul in Boston today after five futile dives in the Atlantic to look for the lost nuclear submarine Thresher.

The fifth dive, cut short by two hours Sunday, was described as negative. The Trieste was brought up sooner than the planned six hours because of failure of the gyro compass and one of its three propulsion motors.

The Trieste was headed for an area of the ocean bottom where a research vessel had photographed a 3,000-pound air bottle of the type used on the Thresher. The submarine disappeared about 220 miles east of Boston April 10 with 129 men aboard.

The salvage ship USS Preserver took the Trieste in tow for the voyage to Boston. The trip is expected to take nearly four days.

For Failure To

Russians Blamed Get Peace In Laos

LONDON (AP)—Britain announced today its joint efforts with the Soviet Union to restore peace to troubled Laos have collapsed. The British blamed the Russians for the failure.

The Foreign Office said the Russians wanted to put the blame for renewed fighting in the South-east Asian kingdom on the United States and right-wing elements. The British insist the pro-Communist Pathet Lao is responsible.

Since the two countries could not agree, the British said the only course was to hand the problem back to the 14 nations that took part in the Geneva conference on Laos. Among them are Communist China and the United States.

The British statement was not interpreted in official quarters as a suggestion that there should be another Geneva conference on Laos.

"The British policy," said a Foreign Office spokesman, "is that the present Geneva agreement should be made to work."

New York Bans

Death Penalty

ALBANY, N.Y. (AP) — The mandatory death penalty for persons convicted of premeditated murder was abolished in New York State today.

Under a law effective today, the penalty for premeditated murder will be life imprisonment unless the jury, meeting in a separate session after returning a verdict, agrees unanimously on the death penalty.

New York thus became the last state in the nation to eliminate the mandatory death sentence in convictions for premeditated murder.

In the change, the state also has eliminated a long-standing distinction between first-degree murders—premeditated and felony.

"Felony murder" is the designation for a slaying committed during a crime, such as robbery or arson, and not necessarily premeditated. All persons who participate in the crime are subject to charges of first-degree murder, regardless of which one did the actual killing.

Henceforth, there will be no distinction in first-degree murder cases in setting the penalty. It will be life imprisonment unless the jury recommends death.

Bishop Baraga's

Mission Visits To Escanaba Recalled

"We must approach our Centennial observance," said the Rev. Charles Carmody of Marquette in his sermon at the Catholic Field Mass at 4:30 p. m. Sunday at Karas Memorial Shell in Ludington Park "not only viewing the human community as the city of man, but following the admonition of St. Augustine — see it as the City of God as well."

"Whatever the progress, or failure of the people of Escanaba for these 10 decades, their living of the Christ-life will be the only lasting reality. It is, therefore, the spiritual forces in this century of existence that are all important."

Father Carmody spoke at a Field Mass offered with Rt. Rev. Msgr. Martin B. Melican, pastor of St. Patrick's Church, and dean of the Delta County Catholic clergy, in the presence of the Most Rev. Thomas L. Noa, bishop of the Catholic Diocese of Marquette.

The Mass was offered on Bishop Baraga Day, which was celebrated in a procession from the Bishop Noa Home for Senior Citizens to the park and in a dinner meeting of diocesan clergy after the Field Mass at the Bishop Noa Home, at which officers of the Bishop Baraga Association were elected.

"When we think of the spiritual heritage of this city or this Upper Peninsula," said Father Carmody "the name of Frederic Baraga everywhere presents itself. Self. For in the midst of many who came to despoil the land and who cared little for its ultimate development, Frederic Baraga stood prepared only to give the charity, justice and peace of Christ to all whom he touched."

Before The City

"Long before the City of Escanaba stood on these shores of the Bay de Noc, the saintly missionary walked here, preaching the faith of Christ. Traveling with Indian guides in a fragile canoe, the priest sought everywhere the souls of an abandoned people. In 1833 he crossed Lake Michigan to Little Detroit Island, entered Green Bay and continued to sail up along the west and north shore of the lake.

"This was the first time Baraga was to see Sand Point. In his diary, several additional references are made to these shores. A number of times he beached here. Other times he passed through on overland journeys.

"He tells us more than once he trudged the ice of the great bay before us. In one diary entry, dated March 2, 1853, Baraga writes: 'Today I left L'Anse to go overland to Detroit and have my dictionary printed there. On the Sunday at Karas Memorial Shell in Ludington Park "not only viewing the human community as the city of man, but following the admonition of St. Augustine — see it as the City of God as well."

"Whatever the progress, or failure of the people of Escanaba for these 10 decades, their living of the Christ-life will be the only lasting reality. It is, therefore, the spiritual forces in this century of existence that are all important."

Father Carmody spoke at a Field Mass offered with Rt. Rev. Msgr. Martin B. Melican, pastor of St. Patrick's Church, and dean of the Delta County Catholic clergy, in the presence of the Most Rev. Thomas L. Noa, bishop of the Catholic Diocese of Marquette.

The Mass was offered on Bishop Baraga Day, which was celebrated in a procession from the Bishop Noa Home for Senior Citizens to the park and in a dinner meeting of diocesan clergy after the Field Mass at the Bishop Noa Home, at which officers of the Bishop Baraga Association were elected.

"When we think of the spiritual heritage of this city or this Upper Peninsula," said Father Carmody "the name of Frederic Baraga everywhere presents itself. Self. For in the midst of many who came to despoil the land and who cared little for its ultimate development, Frederic Baraga stood prepared only to give the charity, justice and peace of Christ to all whom he touched."

Before The City

"Long before the City of Escanaba stood on these shores of the Bay de Noc, the saintly missionary walked here, preaching the faith of Christ. Traveling with Indian guides in a fragile canoe, the priest sought everywhere the souls of an abandoned people. In 1833 he crossed Lake Michigan to Little Detroit Island, entered Green Bay and continued to sail up along the west and north shore of the lake.

"This was the first time Baraga was to see Sand Point. In his diary, several additional references are made to these shores. A number of times he beached here. Other times he passed through on overland journeys.

"He tells us more than once he trudged the ice of the great bay before us. In one diary entry, dated March 2, 1853, Baraga writes: 'Today I left L'Anse to go overland to Detroit and have my dictionary printed there. On the

South Haven Man Invents Peaches

By A.F. MAHAN
SOUTH HAVEN (AP)—Chances are pretty good you'll be indebted to Stanley Johnston for the next fresh peach you eat.

That goes whether you eat your peach in the United States, Canada, Italy, France, Turkey or Yugoslavia. He "invented" seven different varieties and has more coming.

Of America's production of 40-plus million bushels of Freestone peaches a year, the Johnston group accounts for more than 30 per cent. One of his varieties ranks No. 1 and another No. 3 among Freestones they're almost as popular in Europe's peach-growing countries.

Works On Berries
Now he has moved into the Clingstones, which account for more than 30 million bushels of the nation's total peach crop. The "Suncling" wasn't released to nurserymen for propagation until 1961 and hasn't hit the market yet.

And Johnston is working on a better strawberry, developing an apricot that will survive midwestern winters, attempting to cross-breed viruses out of raspberries and trying for an ideal blueberry bush ripening all its fruit at once and within arm's reach.

Johnston is director of the South Haven Experiment Station of Michigan State University.

"He is the world's No. 1 breeder of deciduous fruits, and he's going to make some more substantial contributions before he's through," says Dr. H. B. Tukey, retired chief of Michigan State's Horticulture Department.

Won't Quit At 65
Normally Johnston would be through next September when he reaches 65, but he plans to stay on until he is 68 "because I've got a lot of things close to yielding interesting results."

All of them involve deciduous fruits which Tukey explained are those that drop their leaves, like apples and peaches, as opposed to the evergreens, such as oranges and lemons.

Of the seven varieties of peaches "invented" by Johnston, six are Freestone with the word "haven" in their name.

Now the experts estimate there probably are more "haven" trees in the world's orchards than any other one type, and Johnston says he hopes to release two more varieties this fall.

And here's some news for the Pacific Coast, which has a virtual monopoly on apricots: Johnston believes he's "about over the hump" in breeding an apricot whose tree will withstand Midwestern freezes and put this vast area in competition with you.

Also in the works is a dual purpose strawberry, one meeting the show and taste requirements of the fresh fruit retailer and the needs of the canning and freezing processor. There is no such ideal now, but Johnston thinks he may have it in two to five years.

What is more, Johnston believes he's close to a new blueberry bush that will spread this crop into Northern Michigan, here winters now kill off high, big-berry bushes sticking above the snowline.

When Johnston took over his experiment station 43 years ago, Michigan didn't grow a single blueberry commercially. Now on 7,000 acres running up and down the Lake Michigan shoreline from South Haven, growers pick an annual harvest of 18 million pints.

Compared with the old standard Freestone Elberta peach, the Johnston-developed Redhaven, Halehaven, Fairhaven, Kalhaven, Sunhaven and Richhaven put an additional million dollars in the pockets of Michigan growers in the premium prices they bring.

Michigan's 1961 peach crop, a normal one, totaled 3.45 million bushels and was valued at $632 million.

On what is the nation's largest fresh fruit market at Benton Harbor, Redhavens brought $1.29 more per bushel than Elbertas. Kalhavens brought 49 cents more and Halehavens and Fairhavens each fetched 33 cents more.

Johnston developed his "haven" in an attempt to provide competition against Elbertas, which at one time accounted for 85 per cent of the fresh market peach production.

Started In 1924

Johnston began peach breeding in 1924. His seven varieties came from experiments that involved budding or grafting of an estimated 18,000 peach seedlings. It took him eight years to bring out the first one.

One of two varieties Johnston hopes to release to nurserymen this fall is designed to ripen in what now is a blank spot, a week ahead of Elbertas. The other is a dual purpose peach, for both the fresh fruit and canning trade.

Johnston began experimenting with apricots, which sell for about twice the price of peaches, in 1939. Now he has come up with three unnamed varieties that have done well in trials in western counties.

It takes eight years to bring apricots to commercial production and Michigan's oldest trial orchards are only 6 years old, but in those and younger ones farmers have planted 25,000 to 30,000 trees.

What's Johnston going to do when he retires? Live in a cottage on the lake at South Haven, with his wife. He hasn't got a farm.

Flat Rock School Sponsoring Three Summer Classes

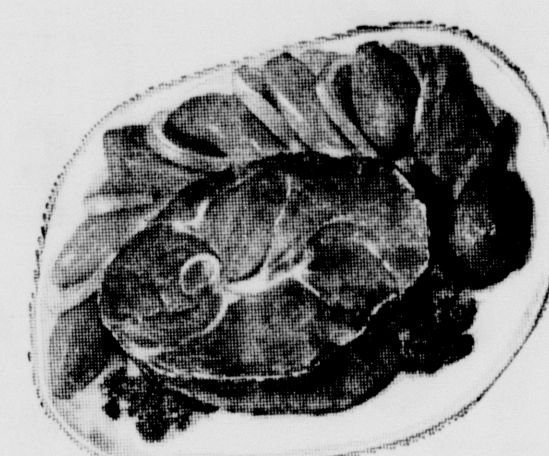

A three phase program is being undertaken by the Flat Rock Board of Education, namely, Band, under the direction of Robert Anderson of Escanaba; Remedial Reading, directed by Mrs. Violet Goodman of Gladstone; and Swimming under the supervision of the Gladstone Recreation Department, with Don Pfotenbauer in charge.

Students taking part in Band or Remedial Reading will provide their own transportation, while those taking Swimming lessons will be transported to the Gladstone Beach as formerly.

Auto Club Raps Scare Predictions On Holiday Travel

DETROIT (AP)—The Automobile Club of Michigan has called for an end to what it termed "misleading and frightening fatality predictions and statistics" in connection with holiday weekend traffic accidents.

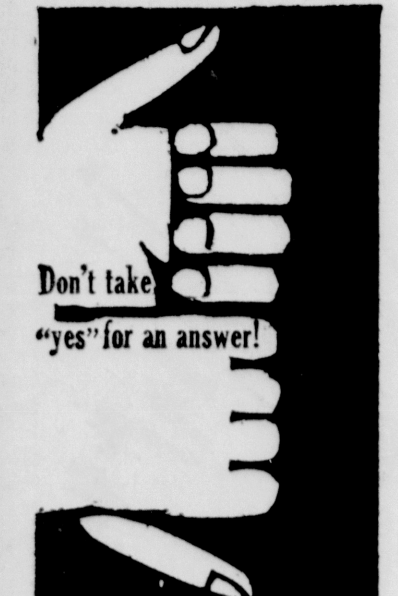

Fewer than one in one thousand Michigan motorists will receive a traffic violation or be involved in even a minor accident, the Auto Club said in its usual pre-holiday statement.

General Manager Fred N. Rehm said attention should be focused on educating motorists in safe driving techniques—rather than discouraging them from traveling or possibly causing them to "freeze" in a hazardous driving situation. He added:

"Although there were nearly 3 million cars on state highways over the last Memorial Day holiday, the number of people killed was 21—or less than the average for any three-day weekend last summer."

Yogi Can Still Hit

Red Sox Learn Two Lessons About How To Beat Yankees

By JIM BECKER
Associated Press Sports Writer
If Robin Roberts will stop sobbing softly over there in the corner, we will discuss what the Boston Red Sox learned over the weekend about how to beat the New York Yankees.
First, they learned that Yogi Berra's .186 batting average does not indicate that he can't hit any more.
Then they learned that you do not give the Yankees four outs in an inning. And you definitely do not give them five.
And Robin's problem?
Well, Roberts has pitched in 573 major league games but the one he is likely to remember in the wee hours of the morning when sleep comes hard, is the first game of Sunday's Baltimore-Kansas City doubleheader.
Roberts went 13 1-3 innings in muggy heat, left with one out in the 14th, a runner on second and the score tied 1-1. Meanwhile, his Oriole mates had left 13 men on base.

Win Second Game
A walk, a ground out, and then reliever Dick Hall served a two-run single to Doc Edwards. The 3-1 loss was pinned on Roberts. The Orioles struggled 12 innings in the second game to win 4-3.
The Yankees patted the Red Sox twice, 4-2 and 11-4, and may have buried any pennant hopes that lurked in the Boston breast. The double win gave the Yankees a two-game American League lead, and dropped the Red Sox 4½ games back.

The second place Chicago White Sox split, dropping the opener to the Cleveland Indians 8-4 for their third straight loss, before winning the second game 4-2.
The Minnesota Twins won their seventh straight 6-2 over Washington, and Detroit trimmed the Los Angeles Angels 6-5.

In the National League, Houston edged the leading St. Louis Cardinals 1-0, San Francisco beat Cincinnati 7-3, Milwaukee blanked Los Angeles 7-0, Pittsburgh shut-out the New York Mets 3-0 and Philadelphia defeated Chicago 3-2.

Homers In First
Old Yogi, now 38 and used mostly as a coach and pinch hitter this season, slugged a three-run homer in the first inning off Red Sox starter Bill Monbouquette for all the runs the Yankees needed. The Red Sox got nine hits off Whitey Ford—who won his 12th and ninth straight decision—and reliever Hal Reniff who came on in the seventh. Monbouquette, who had won nine straight, and Arnold Earley held the Yanks to five.
Although the Red Sox stranded nine men in the first four innings of the second game, they had a 2-1 lead in the Yankee fourth. With the bases loaded, Boston first baseman Dick Stuart let Tony Kubek's two-out grounder go through his legs for a three-run, three-base error.

Twins Hold Third
Gary Peters pitched a seven-hitter in the second game for his fifth victory, and third over the Indians. Pete Ward had two hits including his 10th homer and Tom McCraw singled home two runs for the White Sox.

Minnesota held onto third spot, 2½ games back, as Camil Pascual and Mike Fornieles teamed for the victory. Pascual left after three innings when his arm stiffened. He had not pitched since June 12 because of a muscle strain in his right shoulder, but he fanned five of the 19 batters he faced before he left. Jimmie Hall's three-run homer got the big blow. The A's didn't get a bit until the seventh.

Dick McAuliffe hit a lead-off homer in the ninth off Los Angeles relief ace Julio Navarro for the Detroit victory. For the Angels, Leon Wagner had a good day in the field, hit his 19th homer raised his batting average to a league leading .351 and his RBI total to 57.

Seeding Rapped At Wimbledon
WIMBLEDON, England (AP)—the seeding committee of the All-Tennis Championships is under criticism for its seeding of the players.

With the Wimbledon tournament swinging into the final half today, eight seeds in the men's singles are left to fight out the quarter-finals. They are Roy Emerson of Australia, the favorite, second seeded Manuel Santana of Spain, and Chuck McKinley of San Antonio, Tex., seeded fourth.

The other five were toppled during the first four rounds.
The seeding committee is never 100 per cent popular. Now the critics contend that stars like Rafael Osuna of Mexico and Ramanathan Krishnan of India should have been seeded for rightful places in the quarter-finals.

The classic match of the tournament thus far was the third round duel between Santana and Osuna. Santana won in five sets after a brilliant display by both players.

Seedings are based mainly on players records in this year's major tournaments—notably on the Australian and European circuits. Osuna didn't play on either—hence his omission from the seedings.

The women's seedings were a bit more successful. Six of the eight—Margaret Smith of Australia, Mrs. Ann Jones of Britain, Darlene Hard of Long Beach, Calif., Jan Lehane of Australia, Maria Bueno of Brazil and Renee Schuurman of South Africa—are in the quarter-finals.

Skinny Brown Fires Colts To Victory Over Cardinals
By JIM HACKLEMAN
Associated Press Sports Writer
It's hard to figure Hector (Skinny) Brown, who has bounced around the baseball world with indifferent success since he broke in as a kid pitcher in the Piedmont League 17 years ago, as a history-maker.

But the 38-year-old right-hander has his claims to fame.
Only two major league games ever have been played on Sunday night—and Brown has won them both.

Pitching masterfully in the clutch, Brown spun a seven-hit shutout at Houston as the last-place Colts edged the National League leading St. Louis Cardinals 1-0 Sunday night. That doubled his victory output for the season. His other one came in a 3-0 decision over San Francisco on June 9—when Houston inaugurated after-dark play on Sunday.

Brown's pitching and a run-producing single in the fourth inning enabled the Colts to beat the Cards for the first time in eight meetings this season—and post only the second victory in their last 14 games.

Cards Keep Lead
However, the Cards maintained their 1½-game grip on first place—with the aid of Milwaukee's Tony Cloninger. The young right-hander fired a two-hitter and faced only 28 men in the Braves' 7-0 romp over the second-place Los Angeles Dodgers.

Also in the NL—the San Francisco Giants climbed to within two percentage points of Los Angeles, beating Cincinnati 7-3 as southpaw Billy Pierce won for the first time since April 16; Pittsburgh's Bob Friend and Al McBean combined for a three-hit 3-0 decision over the New York Mets; and Philadelphia shaded the Chicago Cubs 3-2.

New York's Yankees boosted their American League lead to two full games with a doubleheader sweep over Boston, 4-2 and 11-4. Also in the AL—Minnesota won its seventh straight, 6-2 against Washington; Detroit edged Los Angeles 6-5; the Chicago White Sox blanked Cleveland 4-0 after losing the doubleheader opener to the Indians 8-4; and Kansas City and Baltimore divided a pair of extra-inning games, the A's winning 3-1 in 14 and the Orioles 4-3 in 12.

Aaron Hits Homer
Cloninger got his chief hitting support from Hank Aaron, who has been battering Dodger pitching this year, and Roy McMillan, against 13 victories.

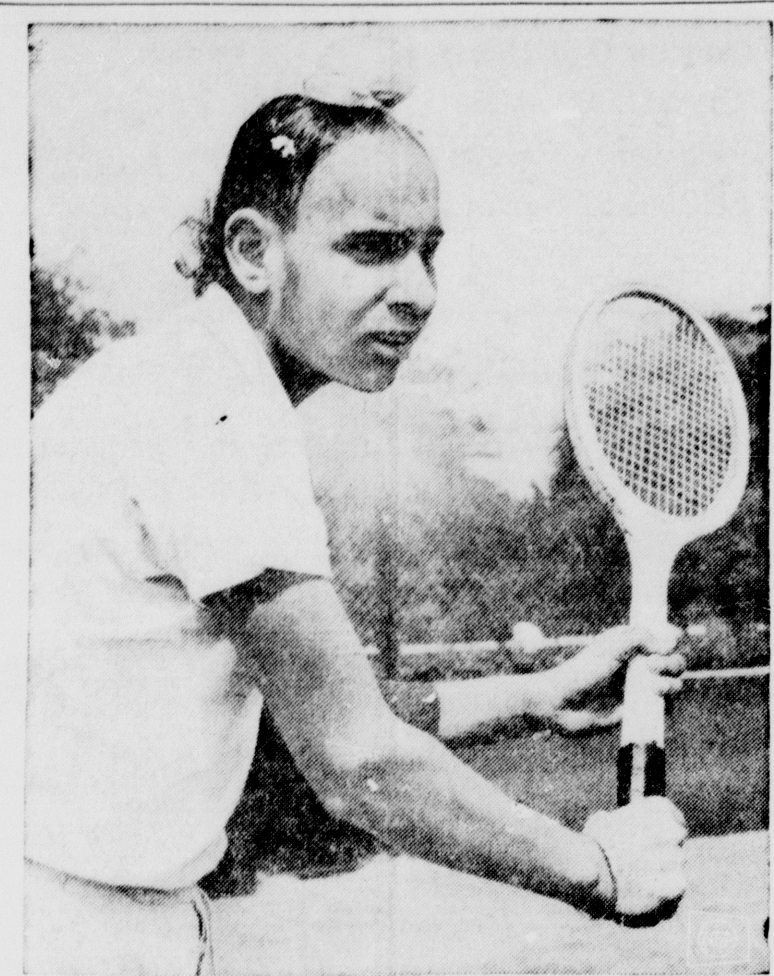

Aaron smacked his 22nd homer and a single, giving him 16 hits in 30 at-bats against Los Angeles this year, and McMillan drove in two Milwaukee runs with a homer and double.

Friend made his personal record 7-for-7 against the Mets, yielding only two singles before retiring after eight innings in the muggy heat at Pittsburgh. McBean finished, giving up one more single.

The Phils took a 2-0 against Cub loser Larry Jackson with four straight singles in the second inning and got their decisive run in the seventh when Tony Gonzalez doubled and Frank Torre singled. Art Mahaffey won it with relief help from Johnny Klippstein.

Willie McCovey's 18th homer in the sixth inning at San Francisco off Jim O'Toole snapped a 1-1 tie between the Cincinnati Reds and Pierce. The Giants then rushed across five unearned runs in the seventh against Al Worthington, the last three riding in on Willie Mays' homer.

Pierce, now 2-5, yielded eight hits to the Reds, including a two-run homer to Eddie Kasko in the ninth. O'Toole, who had permitted only two hits before McCovey's homer, took his fifth loss against 13 victories.

Cubs Put Stoppers On Menominee Team

Results Sunday
Escanaba 6, Menominee 2
Manistique 12, Gladstone 0

The Eskey Cubs tamed the rampaging Menominee Beavers in the Waubung League's feature game Sunday at the Al Ness Field, winning 6-2 behind Mike Kositzky's masterful three-hit pitching performance.
In other action Sunday, Manistique took advantage of a shaky Gladstone defense to fashion a 12-0 shutout.

Menominee entered the game at Escanaba with a fabulous record of runs in two previous victories. The Beavers had trounced Gladstone 12-0 and Powers 26-3.

The victory cemented Escanaba's place atop the Waubung League standings with a 4-0 record. The Cubs will be idle next Sunday.

Kositzky continued his torrid hitting pace for the Cubs with two hits in four trips to keep his season batting average at .500. On the mound, Big Mike whiffed eight batters and walked four.

Phil Lynwood went the distance for Menominee and was rapped for 10 hits while granting nine walks. He had six strikeout victims.

Center fielder Jim Bruce had a perfect day at the plate with three hits and two walks in five appearances. He drove in an Eskey run in the eighth.

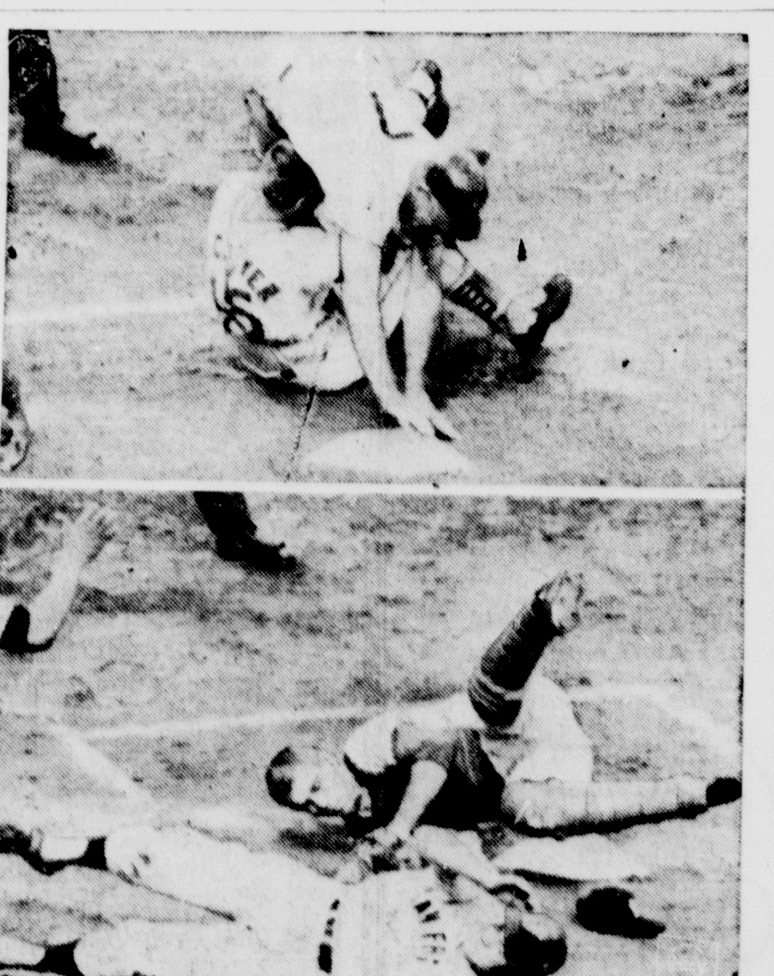

Shortstop Frank Trotter scored three of Escanaba's runs, denting the plate on a wild pitch in the first, on Dave Kositzky's single in the sixth and on an error on the catcher in the eighth.

Paul Agneberg had two of Menominee's three hits.
Manistique ran its record to 2-1 with the triumph over Gladstone at the Bay Shore diamond. Ten Gladstone errors helped keep Manager Don Howes' team in trouble through the game.

Jerry Belleville, a 5-foot, 7-inch righthander, took over the Manistique pitching chores and scattered seven hits while fanning five and walking four.

Phil Caron tossed the first eight innings for Gladstone and, Jim Shandony came on in the ninth. They allowed nine hits, struck out 10 batsmen and walked four.

Jon Cameron and Pat Groleau each had two hits for Coach Warren Groleau's Manistique team.

San Francisco Giants' Harvey Kuenn, 7, trying to score from third base in St. Louis, dives over catcher Tim McCarver at the plate (top). They wind up in a scramble (bottom), with Kuenn out.

Babe Ruth Four Teams Tied For League Lead

A four-way tie for leadership in the Babe Ruth League was the result of Saturday's action. Harnischfeger's 9 to 2 win over the Elks gave both winner and loser a share of the top spot along with Kiwanis and Mead Paper.

Mead Paper moved into the leader's circle with a convincing 11 to 4 victory over the Bankers. Kiwanis kept pace by edging Insurance Association, 3 to 2, in one of this season's better contests.

Bob Irish of Kiwanis and Lee Robitaille of Insurance hooked up in a pitcher's duel which was decided in the sixth inning when Irish scored the tie-breaking run after walking, stealing second base, and scoring on Bob Haack's second hit of the game.

Irish held Insurance to 3 hits, struck out 11, and walked 3. Robitaille allowed 4 hits, struck out 8, and walked 3. Bob Haack picked up 2 of the 4 Kiwanis hits, driving in the tying run in the fourth inning and pushing across the winning run in the sixth.

Mead Paper scored 7 runs in the sixth inning to defeat the Bankers, 11 to 4, in the middle game of Saturday's tripleheader. Butch LeBay won his first start in Babe Ruth competition by scattering 7 Elks hits while striking out 4, and walking 6. Bill Sarnowski and Ricky Kuchenberg shared mound duties for the Bankers, giving up 6 hits, striking out 8, and walking 7. Ed Gauthier had two for four for the winners and Ricky Kuchenberg took hitting honors for the losers with three for four.

Harnischfeger Local 632 moved up to a share of the league lead by defeating Elks, 9 to 2, in Saturday's finale. Terry Moore and Jerry Richards held the hard-hitting Elks to 5 safeties, 4 of which came off the hot bat of Mike Olson. Buster Dube and Olson handled the mound work for the losers, allowing 10 hits and 9 walks. Pat Viati had 3 hits for the Harnies and teammate Jim DeGrand had two for three.

Next week's Babe Ruth action will be confined to practice games. Team managers will meet Tuesday night at 5:45 at Club 314 to select the 1963 All-Star team which is scheduled to play Menominee in the area playoff at Escanaba on July 18. Rosewall Reigns As Tennis King

FOREST HILLS, N.Y. (AP)—Look at the record and it's obvious why Ken Rosewall reigns as the king of pro tennis.

Rosewall, adding the U.S. Professional Lawn Tennis Championship to his 1963 collection, has compiled a 32-9 record in matches with Rod Laver this year enroute to sweeping four professional titles in the United States.

The tiny Australian won the regular season segment of the U.S. pro tour, then the tour playoffs and two weeks ago took the Adler Invitational pro tournament in Los Angeles.

On each occasion, Laver was the runner-up. Rosewall conquered Laver, 5-3, on the round-robin tour. Then he crushed the rookie left-hander, 14-4, on their man-to-man playoff tour. He defeated Laver in the final of both pro tournaments.

In addition, Rosewall held an 11-2 edge over Laver in their matches in Australia and New Zealand in January. At the time, Laver was being touted as "The World's Greatest Player" following Davis Cup conquests.

ing his 1962 amateur grand slam "All the pros were anxious to prove that, while Rod was good, he wasn't the greatest," said Rosewall Sunday after he defeated Laver 6-4, 6-2, 6-2 in the final of the four-day tourney at historic Forest Hills Stadium.

The $1,400 firstprize money pushed Rosewall close to $50,000 in earnings this year, high among the pros. Rosewall also split $800 with Laver for their triumph in the doubles. They teamed to defeat Earl Buchholz, Jr., St. Louis and Alex Olmedo, the Peruvian now living in Los Angeles, 7-5, 10-8 7-5.

Who Needs Strategy?

McAuliffe Slugs Homerun To Give Tigers 6-5 Game

By JERRY GREEN
Associated Press Sports Writer
DETROIT (AP)—Charlie Dressen, more than any recent Tiger manager, likes to play around with old-fashioned strategy—squeeze plays, the hit and run, stolen bases.
“Now you know the squeeze play sign, don’t you?” Dressen said to Dick McAuliffe as the ninth inning started Sunday in a 5-5 game with the Los Angeles Angels.
“Sure,” nodded McAuliffe and he grabbed his bat and headed for the plate.
“I just wanted to make sure because he’d be the front man on this,” Dressen related later.
He was planning ahead. If McAuliffe gets on, he’s a good bet to get to third with Al Kaline and Rocky Colavito coming up.
“Then we squeeze Mac in with the winning run,” thought Dressen.
As the wheels were spinning, Julio Navarro loaded up and McAuliffe unloaded. He lined a homer off the facing of the upper deck in right and the Tigers were 6-5 winners before getting a chance to try Dressen’s strategy.
Was It Spitter?
“Yeh, I guess Navarro threw me a spitter,” said McAuliffe, “they say he throws them. As the pitch came in everyone on the bench was yelling at me he loaded that one up. But I wasn’t going to stand around and complain about it.”

The victory was a good morale-booster for the sagging Tigers.
“It’s like Christmas when we win one,” said one Tiger and there was some noise in the clubhouse for a change.
The Tigers went into the game

Tony Venzon seems to be blowing a gasket as he thumbs Johnny Temple out of the game at Wrigley Field in Chicago. The Houston second baseman was protesting being called out on strikes when the umpire’s wrath descended.

Defending Champ Distance Winner

DETROIT (AP)—Defending champion Pete McArdie of the New York Athletic Club retained his senior national AAU 25-kilometer run title Sunday.
McArdie, 10,000-meter Pan American champion and holder of several A A U long distance crowns, won in the time of one hour 31 minutes and 11 seconds over a 33-man field. The distance is the equivalent of 15.53 miles.
The race was run in 90-degree-plus weather on a course from Windsor, Ont., to Detroit as part of the Detroit-Windsor International Freedom Festival. The runners ran on roads and city streets and crossed the Detroit River’s Ambassador Bridge.
AAU officials said it was the first sanctioned race to start in one country and finish in another.

PITCHING — Hector (Skinny) Brown, Colts, shut out St. Louis’ National League leading Cardinals on seven hits in a fine clutch performance, 1-0.
BATTING — Jim Hall, Twins, collected three hits, including three-run homer, in Minnesota’s seventh straight victory, 6-2 over Washington.
The last football game played by Ernie Davis was in the 1962 All-America game at Buffalo.

Three-Way Knot For First Place In Golf Tourney

CLEVELAND, Ohio (AP)—National Open champion Julius Boros hit a ball out of bounds on the sixth hole in the third round of the $110,000 Cleveland Open tournament and the miscue turned the golf world topsy-turvy.
The errant shot, only one that went out of bounds in four days, caused Boros to take a two-over-par seven on the hole, cost him $17,683.33 in cash and prevented him from setting a new annual money won record.

Pro Grid Prospects Look Good In All-America Game

BUFFALO, N.Y. (AP)—The first test of the pro football rookies of 1963 points to eight as good bets to make the grade.
They are Hugh Campbell and Kermit Alexander of the San Francisco 49ers, Lee Roy Jordan of the Dallas Cowboys, George Saines and Darryle Lamonica of the Buffalo Bills, John Mackey of the Baltimore Colts, Pat Richter of the Washington Redskins and Bill Nelsen of the Pittsburgh Steelers as good bets to make the grade.
On the basis of their showing in Saturday night’s All-America game won by the West 22-21 over the favored East, Glynn Griffing of the New York Giants, Thunder Thornton of the St. Louis Cardinals, Larry Ferguson of the Detroit Lions, Dave Robinson of the Green Bay Packers and Ray Mansfield, Ronnie Goodwin and Nate Ramsey of the Philadelphia Eagles also appear to have plenty on the ball.

The list is long because the game was remarkably well played considering the 81-degree heat in the steam bath that was War Memorial Stadium.
A crowd of 20,850 turned out for the contest, co-sponsored by the American Football Coaches Association and the Buffalo Evening News.
Hugh Campbell, the Washington State whiz who led the nation in pass receptions for three years, was voted the most valuable player for catching eight passes for 108 yards and two touchdowns. His last TD catch in the final period, plus Mansfield’s conversion, won the game for John Mackey of Southern California, the 1962 college Coach of The Year. Nelsen threw two touchdown passes, completing 11 of 27 for 162 yards.

Jordan, Alabama’s fine linebacker, shored up the East line and should make the Dallas club a fine defensive star. He was the best tackle in the game.
The Buffalo fans were thrilled by the work of Saines, the Michigan State fullback, who topped them all with 86 yards in 16 carries. He suffered a rib injury late in the game.
Lamonica, the 1962 Notre Dame quarterback, was held out at the start due to injuries, but opened up with the pro-type long bombs when he got a chance to throw. He hit Willie Richardson, a future Baltimore Colt from Jackson, Miss. State, with a beautiful 28-year TD pass.

scored in the fifth when Bob Perry dropped Kaline’s fly to deep left center. That put the Tigers behind 5-4.
Bruton Ties Score
Billy Bruton tied it with a homer in the sixth and Dressen started cooking up his strategy while the clubs battled scoreless until the ninth.
Leon Wagner again was the Tigers’ chief tormentor, strengthening his bid for the triple crown of batting Wagner upped his American League leading batting average to .351 with a homer and a double.

He drove in three runs, tightening his grasp on the RBI lead with 57. Wagner’s homer was his 19th, putting him in a tie for the lead with Minnesota’s Bob Allison.
In addition, Wagner made two leaping catches against the left field fence. One robbed Rocky Colavito of a homer. Perry made a dazzling backhand catch on a Bruton drive and Albie Pearson took a double away from Kaline with an over-the-shoulder grab in right.
Dressen gave Willie Smith his first big league start and the rookie southpaw pitched until the eighth. Phil Regan took over then and was the winner with 1 2-3 innings of hitless relief ball.
The Tigers are idle today and open a four-game series against Minnesota Tuesday night.

Tiger Tales

DETROIT (AP)—The Tigers, who’ve been very active in the bonus market, didn’t dole out a penny to sign Willie Smith.
“I didn’t think about a bonus, getting one just didn’t excite me,” said the 24-year-old southpaw after making his first big league start Sunday.
“I was just overjoyed to sign.”
Smith pitched effectively for 7 1-3 innings in his starting debut against the Los Angeles Angels. He gave up only six hits and struck out six before leaving in the eighth with the score tied 5-5.
“He’s got the best curve on the club,” said Manager Charlie Dressen. “He doesn’t have blinding speed, but he uses a screwball to compensate for it.”
“I know they’re not going to do much with his curve.”
Dressen said Smith will make his second start when the Kansas City Athletics come in next weekend.

Leon Wagner of the Angels, never given a tumble by the Tigers when he was in high school in Inkster, hated to leave town.
In the four-game series, the All-Star left fielder had nine hits in 15 at bats, hit three homers and drove in seven runs.

Dressen isn’t at all pleased with the Tigers’ pitching staff and keeps talking about bringing up some hurlers from the Syracuse farm. Doug Gallagher, recovered from a sore arm, and Alan Koch are the pitchers he mentions.
The new manager also is anxious to get Frank Lary back from Knoxville. Dressen figures Lary will get two more starts at Knoxville by the Tigers’ All-Star Game break next week and then will be ready.
Lary turned in another effective job Sunday for Knoxville, beating Chatham 10-2.

Dick Bury Leads State Golf Pros

SAUGATUCK (AP)—Dick Bury, 28-year-old assistant Detroit Lochmoor, led the field by one stroke today into the second and final round of the annual Michigan PGA Tournament.
Bury shot a 2-under-par 70 on the 6,294-yard Hamilton Lake Golf Club course Sunday with the help of five birdies, including a near-eagle when his 15-foot putt rimmed the cup on the 45-yard 15th.
Bury, aide to veteran Chick Rutan at Lochmoor, said he played every hole safely against the card instead of taking chances.
Tied one stroke behind Bury in the fight for $700 first money were Bob Nodus of Bloomfield Hills, Reggie Myles Jr. of East Lansing and Bill Markham of Saginaw.
Defending champion Ben Lula of Mount Clemens just about blew his chances with an 81. His driving was off and he was in the rough most of the time.
John Barnum of Grand Rapids, three times champion, shot a 77. Rutan, Bury’s boss, shot 75.

Police Report Car-Deer Mishaps

Two persons reported car-deer mishaps to the State Police over the weekend.
Milton Erickson, 25, of Ensign, told officers he narrowly missed hitting a deer at 12:30 a.m. Sunday on U.S. 2, one mile east of the Whitefish River.
He said he pulled his car to the right to avoid an accident and in doing so ran into the ditch. He was not injured and no tickets were issued.
Marcel Verbrugghe of Rock informed officers that he hit a deer Sunday evening on County Road 430, near the Day’s River Bridge. He told officers he was traveling slow at the time and that the deer jumped into the path of the car, was hit and ran into the woods. He said he didn’t think the animal was badly hurt.
